This section salutes those, who, since its dedication in 1955, have devoted a major part of their lives to serving others at St. Francis de Sales High School. They are special people who possess an overriding concern for furthering Christian educational values. These people have given the gift of themselves in order to make St. Francis the respected institution it is today. All still perform as an integral part of the present administration. Due to their utmost dedication, it is appropriate that each receive this special recognition.

In today's society, anniversaries are considered special events. They are a time for remembering the people, events, accomplishments, and ideas of the past. Part of the purpose of this special edition ACCOLADE is to commemorate 25 years of St. Francis de Sales High School --- a silver tradition of excellence.

Since 1955, St. Francis has been educating and preparing young men for their role in society. The SFS policy has always been "education of the total man." Many schools can give an academic and physical education, but SFS goes beyond that in refining the social and spiritual being. The school is set apart by the high standards of the people and the beliefs upon which it is based.

Year after year SFS is known for its fine academic program. St. Francis students score 50.40 points higher than the national average, with many taking college courses their senior year. Students are required to take two years of a language, three years of social studies, and four years of English, mathematics, science, and religion. Many long hours of homework are put in to handle such a load. In this way, SFS prepares the student for the heavy workload of college. The student learns the seriousness and importance of a good education.

social growth. After all, 51 per cent of society is female. While it does make dating more difficult, it is not as bad as some would suggest. Students are able to meet and socialize with girls from the academies at sporting events, dances, and other sponsored get-togethers, much as one must meet people as adults.

In the promotion of athletic abilities, diversity is added to the normal gym classes through concentrating on certain skills such as swimming, wrestling, gymnastics, and boxing. Students participate in and support intramurals, which encourage homeroom spirit and pride. In varsity and club sports, the teams consistently turn in a

St. Francis enhances a student's spiritual and moral identity. Through religion classes, retreats, and liturgies one is better able to understand himself and the world around him. This background becomes evident in his actions for the rest of his life.

Finally, this ACCOLADE edition is a history of the year 1980-81 at St. Francis de Sales High School. It is the year frozen for a second. # HISTORY

What is a yearbook, anyway?

It's a pictorial history presented to the school to remind all of what they saw and did during the past year. It is the one and only official history of the school year, a history that stands for all time. The book takes on special meaning for seniors. It offers a last glimpse of four years of hard work and a lot of fun.

Twenty-two years ago, the yearbook was named ACCOLADE. An accolade was a gesture given to medieval Knights as a symbol that they completed their training successfully. After a long year of preparation by this year's student body, and 25 years of excellence in education for this establishment, it is fitting that all are presented with this ACCOLADE.

SFS's Beginnings Offer Hope

During World War II, Toledo Central Catholic High School was in need of five priests to teach English, Latin, Mathematics, Science and History. The principal, Monsignor Harrington, was referred by Bishop Karl J. Alter to the Very Reverend J. Francis Tucker, provincial of the American province of the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales in Wilmington, Delaware. A year later, 1943, five Oblates began teaching at Central Catholic. They continued to teach at Central Catholic for 12 years. This was the establishment of the first Oblate community in Toledo.

The Oblates were not at Central Catholic long before they became noted for their teaching ability and Salesian charity. As it was their desire to educate young men in the Christian life, it was only natural that they establish their own school for the young men of Toledo.

With the closing of St. John's High School, operated by the Jesuits, in 1936 due to the Depression, the bishop of Toledo, George Rehring, wanted a new Catholic college prep school in Toledo to take its place. Bishop Rehring met with two of the Oblates from Central Catholic, Fathers Fuqua and Stahl, to discuss the possibility of the Oblates opening a private school for boys in Toledo. Bishop Rehring's goal was realized in April, 1954, when the plans for a new Catholic boys high school were announced.

After many preliminary meetings, a fund drive for $750,000 was begun in June, 1954. The next step was deciding the location of the school. An old building owned by the University of Toledo at the corner of Nebraska Ave. and Parkside Blvd. was considered as was another piece of property at what is now the Westgate Shopping Center. After much consideration, the site at Bancroft St. and Parkside Blvd. was chosen.

On September 14, 1955, only a short 14 months since the 1200 volunteers had attended the kick-off dinner at Civic Auditorium to raise funds for the school, St. Francis de Sales opened its doors for the 290 freshmen and sophomores.

What were the thoughts of those early students? Their words may be found in volume one of the ACCOLADE.

"On September 14, 1955, St. Francis de Sales High School opened its doors for the first time. The building wasn't finished. There wasn't any grass around, and for that matter there weren't even any desks. But to the 290 anxious freshmen and sophomores nothing seemed hard. We met the Oblate Fathers who were going to be our teachers and found that, besides wanting us to wear coats and ties, they also believed in homework. We learned about St. Francis de Sales and the Direction of Intention. We've had a chance to develop good habits of prayer through regular Masses and other devotions. In class we've had a thorough preparation for college, with stress on the sciences and languages. Our school symbol is the Knight, and we've had a mascot, Foggy Knight. Athletically, we've had varsity teams in football, basketball, and tennis, with also a full program of intramural sports for everybody. Along with the teams, there have been plenty of rallies, parades, and just plain cheering. The band has always contributed much to our spirit. On stage we've had serious drama, farce, and variety shows. Among our most delightful memories are the dances and the proms. Well, now it's all over for the class of '58. The medieval Knights received an accolade, a sign that they had finished their training successfully."

Principals Administrate With Care

Fr. William Ward

1955-62

Fr. William Ward was born in Philadelphia in 1915. He received a Bachelors degree from Catholic University in Washington, D.C. as well as a Masters from Villanova. Following Fr. Ward's 1941 ordination, he spent several years teaching religion at North East Catholic High School in Philadelphia. While at North East Catholic, he also served as Assistant Principal, developing the necessary background experience for his position as the first principal of St. Francis de Sales High School. Fr. Ward held the position of principal at SFS from 1955, when the school opened, through 1960.

Father returned to Philadelphia in 1960 to teach religion until 1966 when he was appointed Provincial of the Toledo-Detroit Province of the Oblates. In 1970 Fr. Ward travelled to Rome where he was named Superior General of the 1100 worldwide Oblates, a post he retains today.

Fr. George Shugrue

1962-67

In 1962, Fr. George P. Shugrue became only the second principal to serve at St. Francis de Sales High School. Following his 1936 ordination, Fr. Shugrue came to this area to serve as the special projects director of the Oblate's Toledo-Detroit Province. Father also received an appointment to the Board of Trustees of the Leukemia Society of America, eventually becoming president of the society's Northwest Ohio chapter.

Fr. Shugrue taught at Central Catholic High School before joining the St. Francis staff to succeed Fr. William Ward. Under Fr. Shugrue's administration, both the Brisson Association and Chappius Society were created. With his 1967 retirement, Father became pastor of St. Pius X Parish. Then, in 1970 in Camben, New Jersey, at the age of 58, Father died.

Fr. Robert Healy

After a leave of absence, Father Healy returned to SFS this year to fulfill an office within the Oblate order and now serves as sophomore counselor. Fr. Healy feels he has been very fortunate to have "been able to remain at SFS for so long and benefit from the variety of posts" he has held. "Teaching is a lot of work," says Fr. Healy, "but it is a most rewarding profession."

Reverend Robert Healy, a native of Toledo and graduate of Central Catholic High School, came to St. Francis in 1957 after being ordained a year earlier. He had received his Bachelors degree from Niagara University in Niagara Falls, New York, and his Masters from Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

Fr. Healy has taught Latin and Religion classes at SFS and, between 1957 and 1960, served as Student Council moderator. In 1960 he became the Assistant Principal and Dean of Men, two posts at which he served until 1967 when he succeeded Fr. George Shugrue to become the school's third principal.

Fr. Ronald Olszewski

Fr. Ronald Olszewski is the current principal of St. Francis de Sales High School. Father also serves as Chairman of the Board of Trustees and teaches Prayer to seniors.

A native of Toledo, Fr. Olszewski graduated from St. Francis in 1962. In 1970, he received a Master of Arts degree from Niagara University. Three years later he earned a Ph.D. in Educational Administration and Supervision from Notre Dame. Ordination followed in May, 1974.

Fr. Olszewski came to St. Francis initially to teach religion and in February, 1975, he succeeded Fr. Robert Healy as the fourth principal of St. Francis de Sales High School.

Now in his sixth year at St. Francis, Fr. Olszewski has seen many changes. During his administration, both the Religion and English curriculum have been revised, the dress code at athletic activities changed, and, more recently, a new science wing built. Fr. Olszewski is a strong believer in the school's motto "Suativer et Fortiter," gently but firmly. Father believes there is no other way to better educate and direct the developing boy into a responsible, mature, Christian man -- the total man.

Dedicated Staff Members Exemplify

Mr. Lawrence Comes

Mr. Lawrence Comes is the head of the Brisson Association (the Father's Club) of St. Francis de Sales. His duties in the office also include organizing the Student Insurance Program and operating the addressograph. All Mr. Comes' work at St. Francis is without pay.

Now 84 years old, Mr. Comes was asked to join the St. Francis staff in 1959 by Fr. Fuquay. Over the years he has been offered jobs at other area high schools, including Central Catholic and St. John's, but he has stayed at St. Francis because he feels a strong sense of loyalty to the school. His son went to school here and he "really likes the faculty and students."

Before coming to St. Francis, Mr. Comes worked for 36 years as both a secretary and treasurer of the Dolphin Paint and Varnish Company.

Fr. John McMenamin

Since 1961, Fr. John McMenamin has been a welcomed member of the St. Francis faculty. Fr. McMenamin graduated from Catholic University in 1952 and was ordained a priest in 1959. In the 19 years he has been at SFS, he has accomplished much. He was head of the Foreign Language Department from 1975 until last year and, in 1976, he instigated the Summer Travel Program. He now teaches German on all four levels. Before coming to St. Francis he taught English in Philadelphia near his hometown of Ft. Washington, Pennsylvania. It is no surprise that Fr. McMenamin finds "a lot of satisfaction" in teaching. He says that through "contact with young people I not only give them new ideas, but also, I get ideas from them. The interaction between a student and a teacher is most rewarding."

Mr. Leonard Swartz

After having worked for various firms and serving in the Army in both World War II and the Korean War, Mr. Leonard Swartz came to St. Francis in June of 1955, even before the construction of the school building had been completed. In the 25 years he has been at SFS, he has been head of the Maintenance Department and overseer of the Student-Work program.

Mr. Swartz has been exposed to all aspects of schooling. Not only is he a qualified maintenance engineer, but he is also certified to teach in the state of Ohio. In the past he has taught in the ROTC program at the University of Toledo as well as in its Continuing Education Department. Mr. Swartz is a graduate of Central Catholic High School and the University of Toledo.

One might think that 25 years of the same job would be a bit monotonous, but Mr. Swartz has a more positive attitude. "There's always a variety. You never get bored." Says Swartz, "The young people are great. By working with them you stay young yourself. That's enjoyable."

St. Francis de Sales Philosophy

Fr. Nicholas Koelzer

When Fr. Koelzer came to St. Francis to teach social studies in 1956, he had decided to stay just one year to see whether he liked the school. His first year impressions were good. He liked the college prep curriculum, the quality of the young men and the spirit of the school. His mind was made up. He would stay.

Besides teaching American Government and Constitutional History, Fr. Koelzer had chaired the Social Studies Department for 20 of his 25 years at St. Francis.

Prior to teaching at St. Francis, Fr. Koelzer had earned a Bachelor of Theology from Catholic University and a Masters from Temple University. Father also had ten years teaching experience at his alma mater, Northeast Catholic in Philadelphia, prior to accepting the St. Francis position.

Mr. and Mrs.
Richard Mattingly

Mr. Richard Mattingly left his teaching position in Zanesville, Ohio to come to St. Francis in 1956, one year after the school opened. Originally he taught physical education, history and health, while coaching basketball and assisting in football. After three winning basketball seasons, including a district berth, he resigned as basketball coach to concentrate on football. His next 12 years of football coaching were very successful, with three City Championships and two undefeated seasons. For several years during this same time span he also coached track and baseball before retiring to his present positions of Military History teacher, Athletic Director and Director of Student Activities in 1972.

Originally from St. Thomas High School in Zanesville, Ohio, Mr. Mattingly attended Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio and later received his masters degree from the University of West Virginia.

During his free time Mr. Mattingly loves to farm his 200 acre farm in Muskingum County. When asked why he has stayed at St. Francis for 25 years his response is, "because I love Toledo and I love the students of St. Francis."

Fr. Robert Healy

Mrs. Virginia Mattingly first came to Toledo from Zanesville, Ohio with her husband when he was given a teaching and coaching job at St. Francis in 1956. Her first involvement with SFS came during the school's early fund raising drives. She became a faculty member in 1957 when she taught typing and worked as a part-time secretary. In 1966 she became a full-time secretary and currently acts as head secretary and is in charge of the offices.

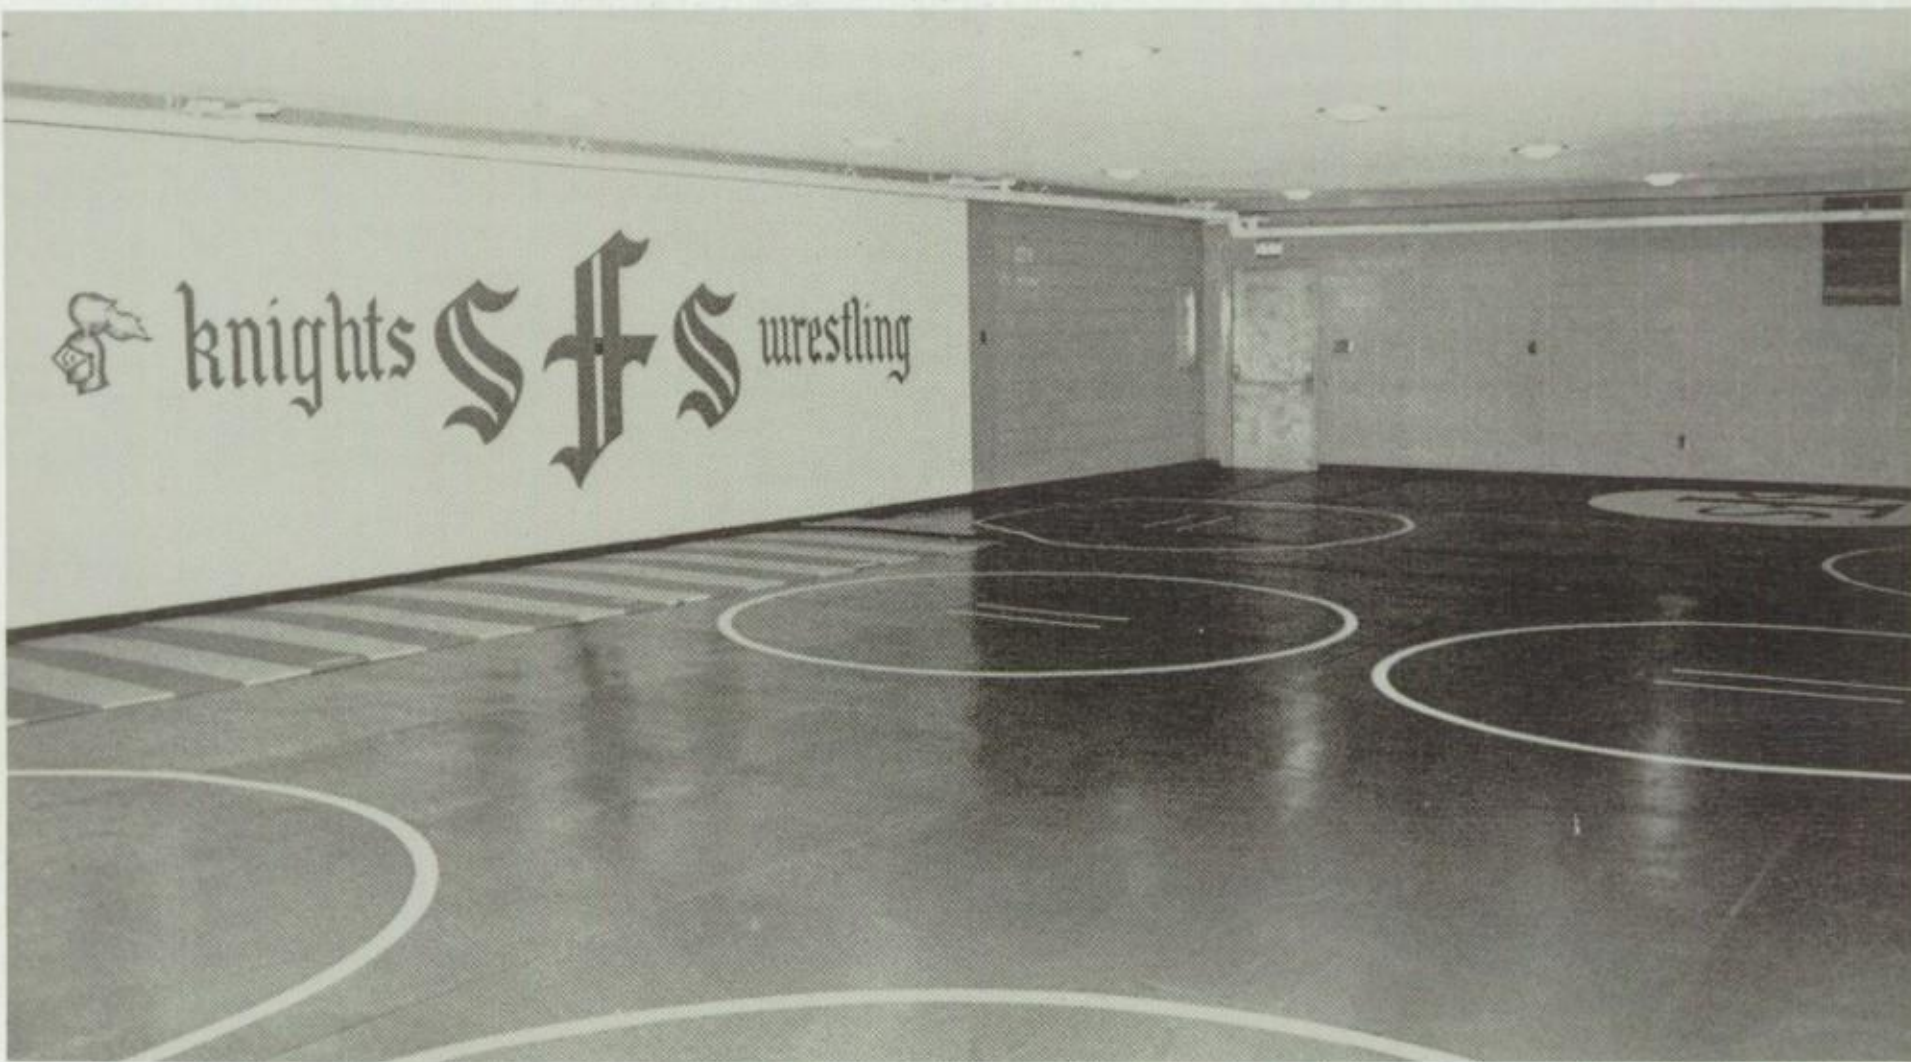

Mrs. Mattingly graduated from Zanesville High School and attended Meredith Business College. During her years at SFS she has witnessed many changes, including not only the expansion of the school but also an increase in the opportunities available to the students. She cites her many friendships as one of the benefits of working at St. Francis. An added convenience is that she and her husband have the same holidays so they are able to spend time together and do the same things on their time off.

Ever since St. Francis first opened in 1955, the school has followed the policy of expansion when improvements were necessary. In 1963 and athletic and music addition were constructed. These additions include the present day wrestling room and band room. Then in 1967 the main offices were expanded and the Oblate House was built, connecting the priest's residence with the school building. The following year, 1968, saw the addition of an indoor swimming pool. More recently, in 1976, a new chapel was added and the former chapel was converted into the media center and the multi-purpose room. This year SFS made another addition with the completion of a million dollar Science wing and the renovation of lecture rooms. This work is part of the current improvement project known as the Silver Knight Campaign. When finished, the school will have special storm windows made the entire building in an attempt to conserve energy for the future Knights of St. Francis de Sales.

Brisson/Chappius Societies Promote School Ideals

Chappius Society

The Chappius Society had its beginnings in 1962 when Fr. George Shugrue, second principal of St. Francis, felt that there was a need for a mother's organization within the school. It was formed under the name of Mother Mary de Sales Chappius, a Visitation nun in Troyes, France, who had urged Fr. Louis Brisson to start the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales.

The society has undertaken various responsibilities, such as providing cultural, social and spiritual programs for its members as well as promoting fund-raising projects for the school. The main purpose of the society is to foster and bring forth a close working relationship between the Oblates and the mothers of the students in an effort to initiate and assist in the execution of programs benefiting the school.

Brisson Society

While St. Francis was being constructed in the fall of 1954, Fr. William Stahl and the men who worked on the fund raising campaign for the building decided to organize an association with the intent of fostering and promoting St. Francis de Sales High School and its activities.

The temporary organizing committee which was formed adopted a constitution and by-laws and officiated at the development of a Board of Trustees and the election of the first officers. Named in honor of Fr. Louis Brisson, founder of the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales, the newly formed organization became operational with the opening of the school in 1955.

ACADEMICS —

St. Francis was founded 25 years ago for the purpose of providing young Christian gentlemen with a sound academic background that would prepare them to meet the rigors of a college curriculum. Students were then required to take four years of Mathematics, Religion, English and Social Studies; three years of Science; and two years of Latin. In addition to Latin, each student was required to take four years of either French or German. Emphasis was placed upon the Laboratory Sciences and Language aspects of the program.

Today that same spirit of academic excellence lives on in a new era of Christian education, which includes a slightly more liberalized curriculum and the use of a new $800,000 Science wing addition. Science and Mathematics are now emphasized, but the use of the many new electives offered is encouraged to round out the student's education. The culmination of these past 25 years of effort is an impressive 97% college acceptance record.

Freshmen Adjust to Academic Load

Dr. Russo counts the seconds as both students and teacher await the end of class.

Freshman year -- it is a transition for most, an impasse for a few. It is basically a year which acclimates the freshman to the St. Francis environment, preparing him for further in-depth study by teaching him the elementary tools of learning. After the confusion of registration day, and the initial shock of homework, the freshman is forced to acquire a sense of priorities.

Each freshman must study Mathematics, Science, Religion, English, a Foreign Language, History, and Physical Education. In the field of Mathematics, the freshman takes either Basic Algebra or Algebra I. Basic Algebra, taught by Br. Jim Roth, provided the freshman with many fundamentals necessary for the pursuit of more difficult algebraic topics.

In Algebra I, Fr. Cutter's pet class, the freshman learned about similar terms: transformations, exponents, substitutions, and, worst of all, story problems. Story problems offered the freshman some of the same nightmares integration gave senior Calculus students. Despite the difficulty, Algebra I provided a solid foundation.

In the past, under Mr. Mattingly, phys. ed. meant learning to climb a rope well.

For his science course, the freshman took Biology, taught by either Mr. Stevens or Mr. Gould. In Biology, the freshman discovered how the circulatory system worked, how to classify species, and the difference between meiosis and mitosis. Although Biology was interesting, most freshman found it difficult because they had never had as comprehensive a course before.

Fr. Feigenbaum and Mr. McCartney taught the freshman Christian Growth, a religion course dealing with responsibility and maturity, or, in other words, all the things that help the freshman become a good Christian Knight.

His other religion course was Old Testament, taught by either Fr. Doll or Fr. Simon, which studied Abraham, Moses, the probability of the great flood, David, and the prophets. Many entered frightened of the size and strange language of the Old Testament and left somewhat surprised that they actually understood and enjoyed the Bible.

Left: One of Br. Jim's mottos is "the world loves a clown so I'll be one."

The freshman's English curriculum consisted of two courses: Grammar and Usage and Communications. Grammar and Usage, taught by Mr. Britton, dealt with the parts of speech -- nouns, verbs, adverbial clauses, and dangling participles, to name a few. As the freshman struggled to understand the complexities involved in his native tongue, he began to appreciate the value of studying a foreign language.

Mr. Kileen's Communications taught the student, among other things, the proper use of a dictionary, the techniques of note-taking and outlining, and the differences between verbal and non-verbal communication. The practicality of this course provided the freshman with some of the essential tools of learning.

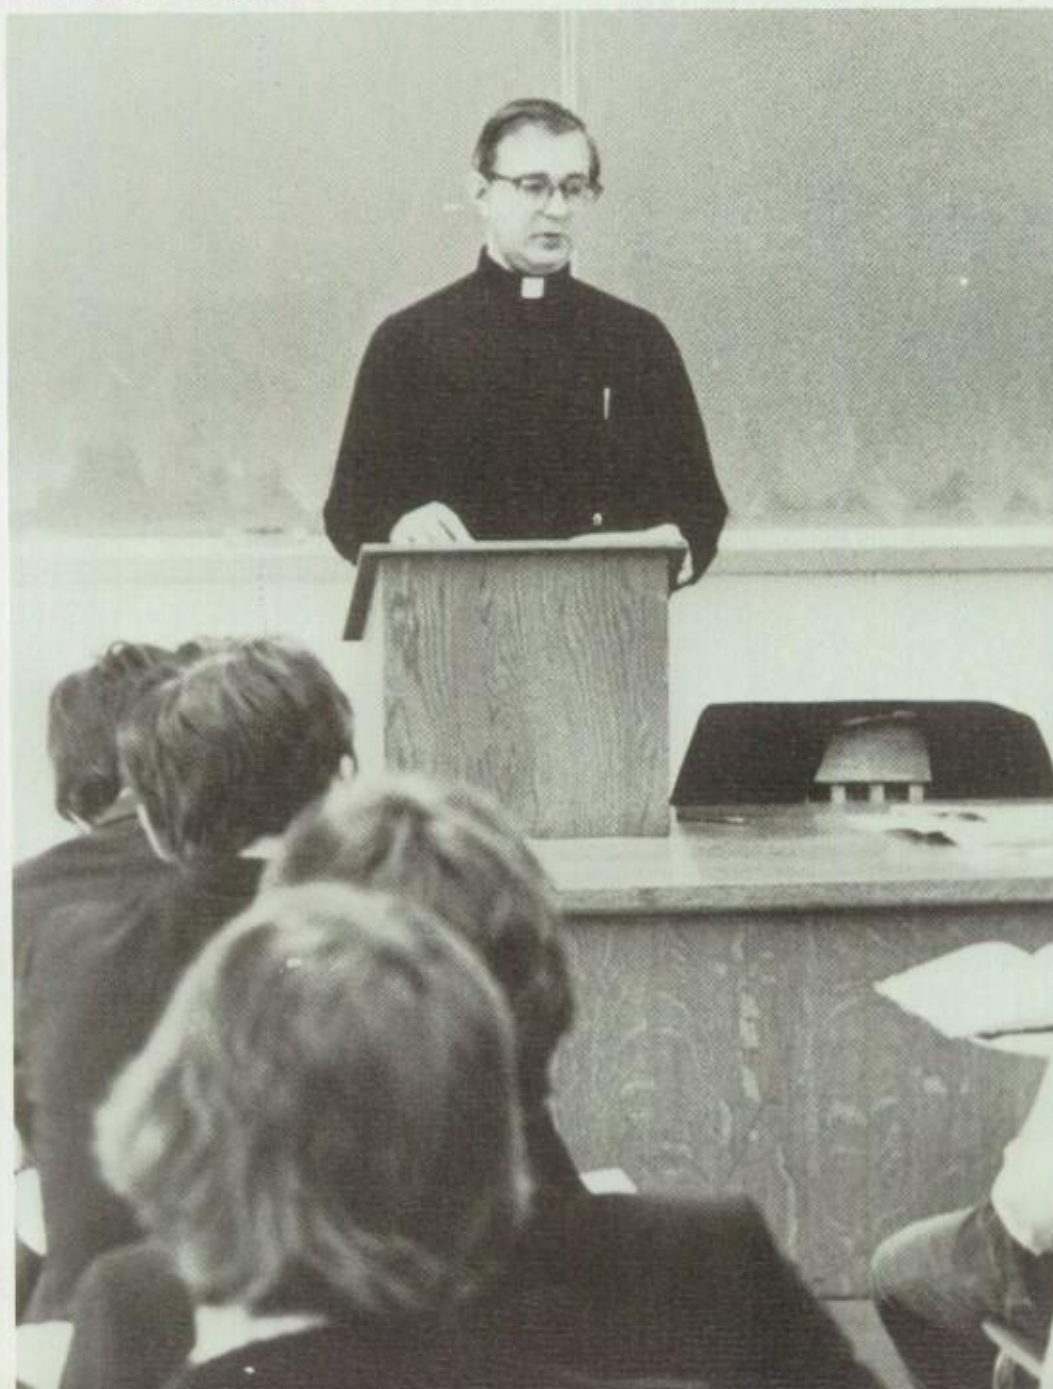

There was a wide choice among first-year foreign language classes: French I, taught by Mr. Loomis; German I, taught by Fr. McMenamin; Latin I, taught by Dr. Russo; and Spanish I, taught by Mrs. Szymanski. Each course prepared the freshman in the rudimentaries of grammar and pronunciation necessary for success in a second-year course. Although the constant drilling was tedious at times, the freshman was able to see its value in helping him learn.

Fr. Cutter explains "x" and "y" to his freshman Algebra I class.

Mr. Killeen and Mr. Albright both taught freshmen American History. Starting with the Native Americans, the freshman moved up through time, studying such events as the French and Indian War, the Whiskey Rebellion, the Embargo Act of 1803, the Civil War, and the Haymarket Square Riot, to name a few. American History was not an easy class, and the freshman had to continually beware of and prepare for the possibility of a pop quiz in the next class.

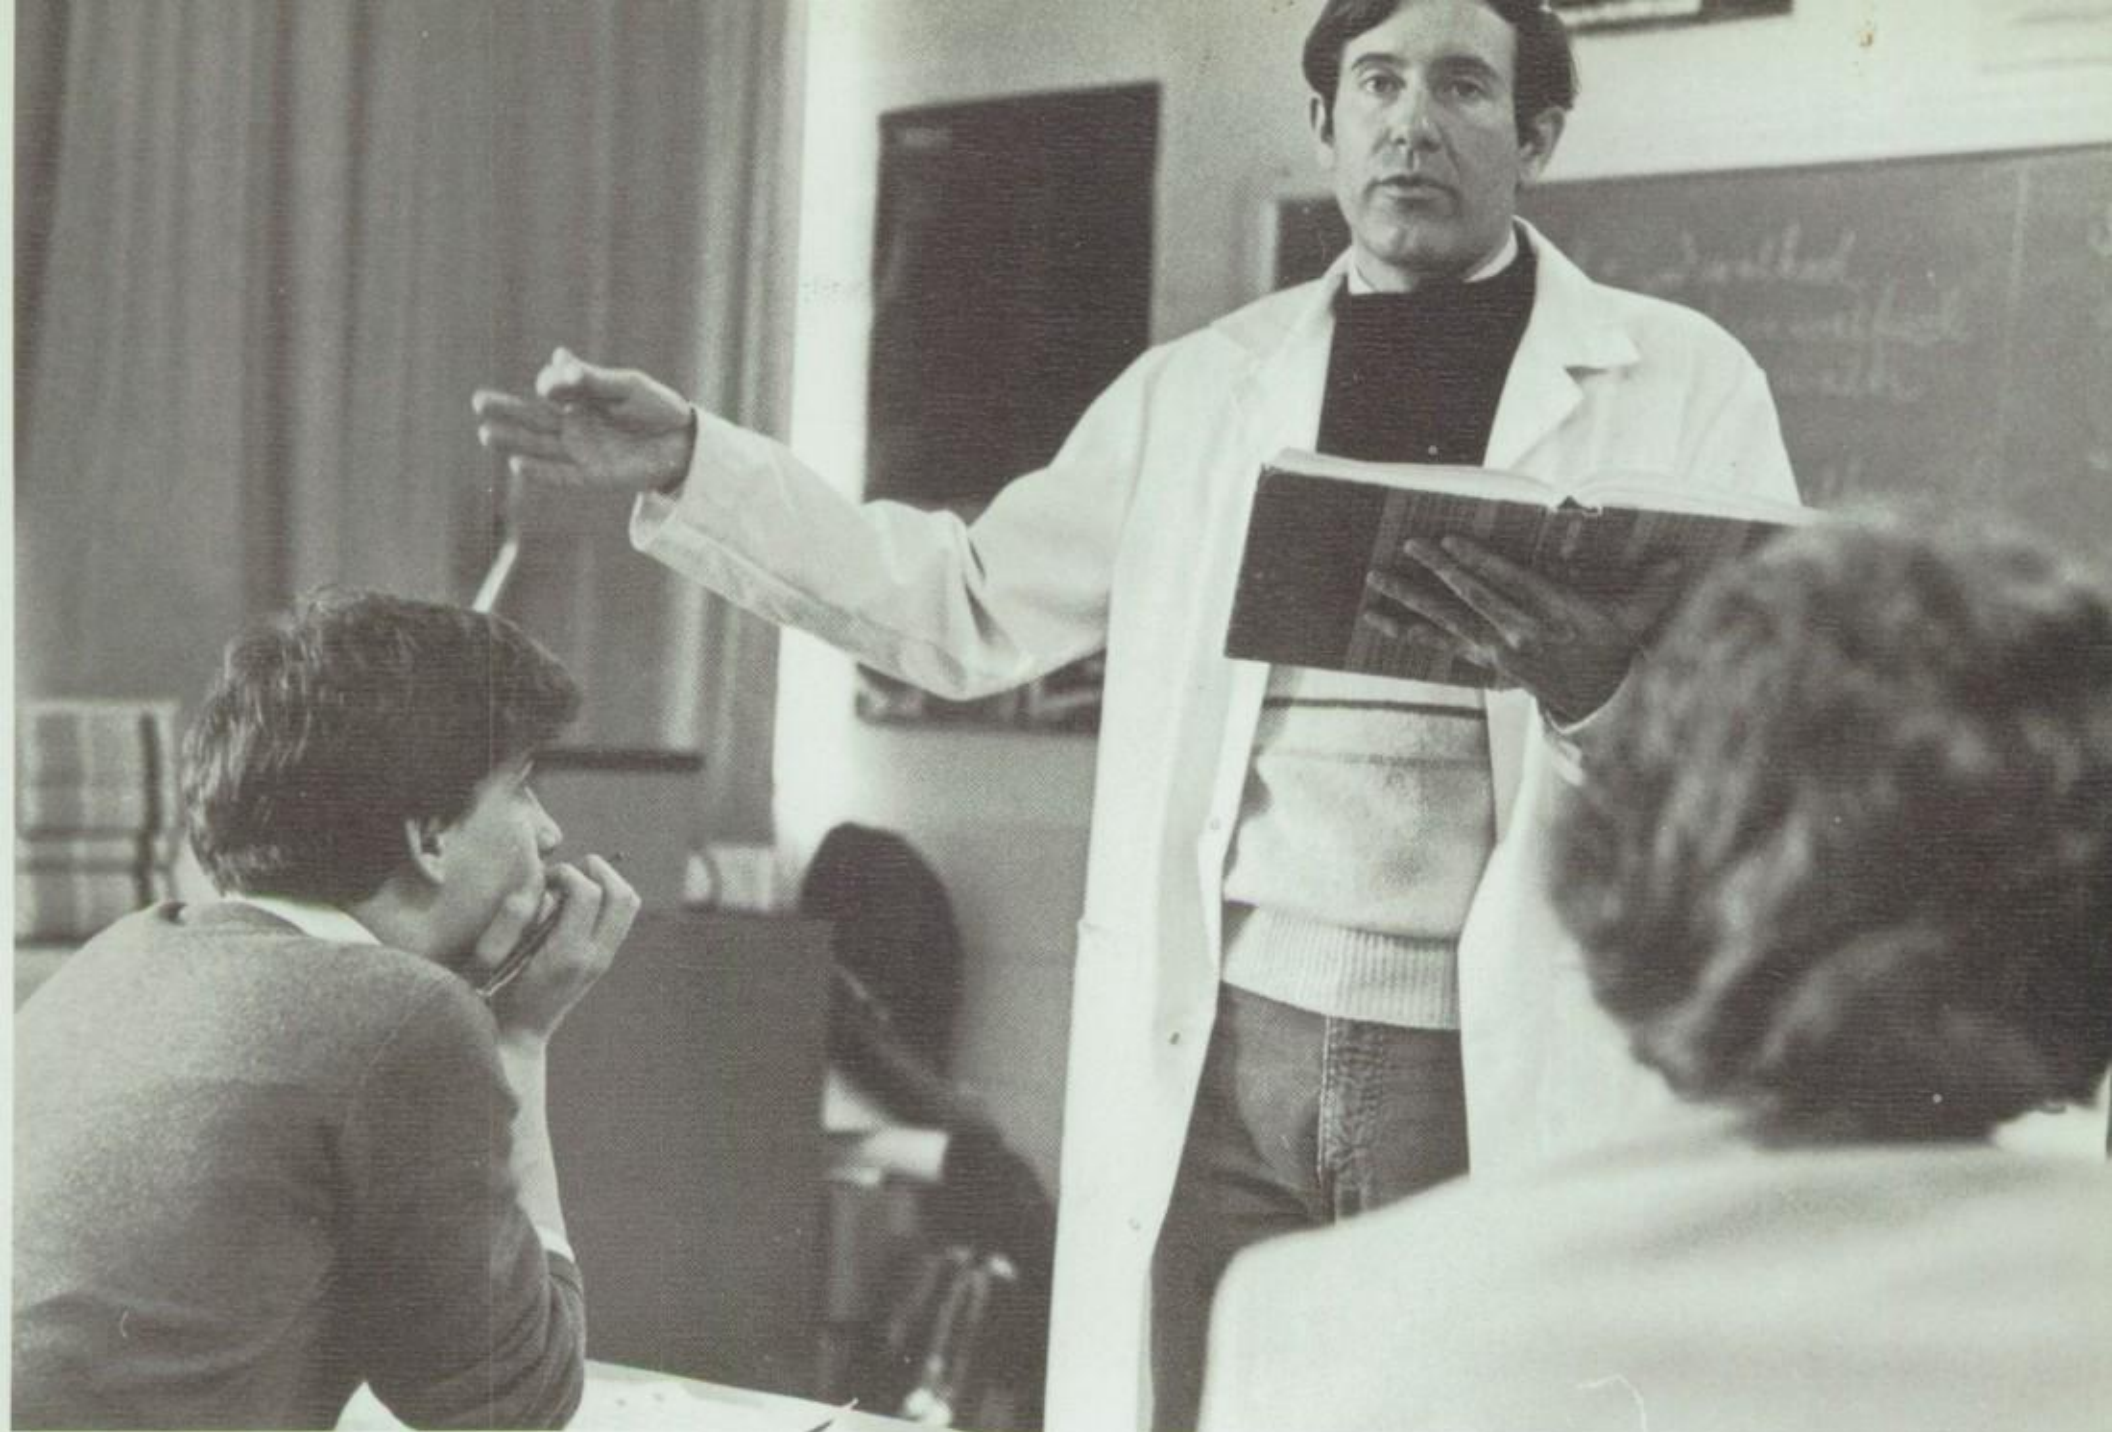

Possibly the most joyous hour in the freshman's day was when he went to Physical Education I, taught by either Mr. Glinka or Mr. Janke. There, he could release his frustrations and anxieties in a constructive manner by playing football, basketball, or engaging in gymnastics. The freshman also spent one quarter in the pool, under the guidance of Mr. Wolff, where he learned basic strokes and diving techniques helpful in preparation for his junior year Lifesaving course.

All in all, the freshman year was truly a year of change. By meeting new people, learning to work with them, and developing friendships, the freshman found the security he needed to help him through his first year at St. Francis, ready and eager to meet his future challenges here.

Sophomores Accept Challenges

Sophomore year brought academic changes as well as status changes to those who allowed themselves to grow. The sophomore was no longer considered a lower form of life by upperclassmen. He was at least tolerable now, with a year of high school behind him.

A part of the status change in the sophomore's life revolved around his social development. He looked forward to participation in activities that were less available to him during his freshman year. Activities ranged from supporting the JV teams to socializing with the girls from the academies. The sophomore felt himself becoming more of a man and began to participate more fully in school life.

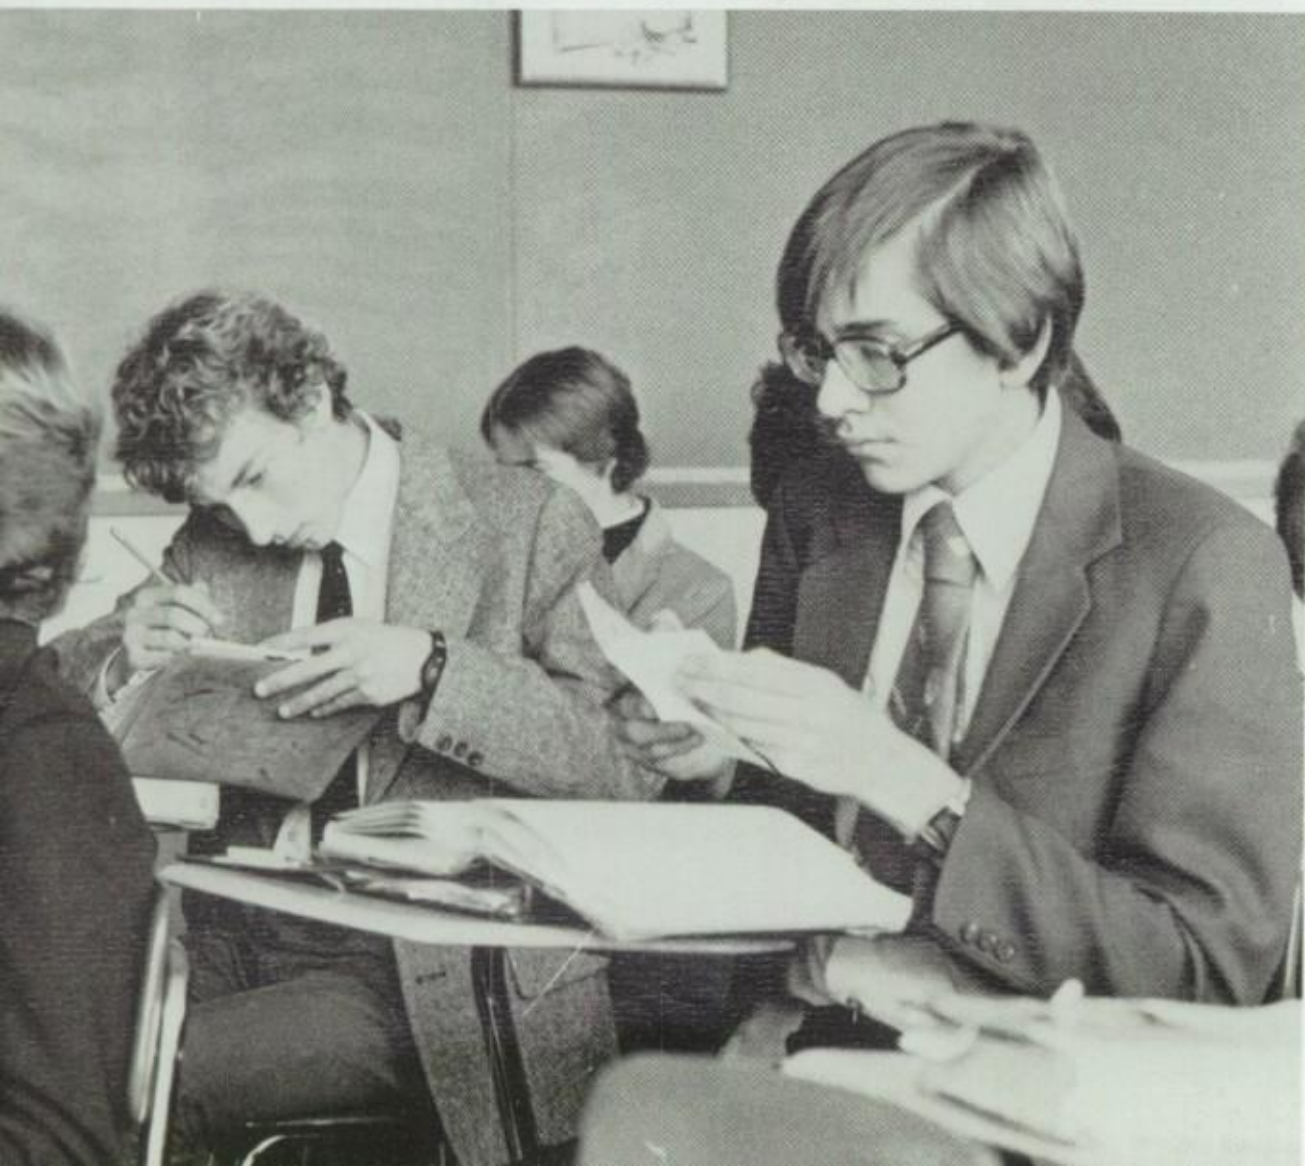

Now that he was a sophomore, he had new academic challenges. He studied Mathematics, Science, Religion, English, a Foreign Language, Social Studies, and Physical Education. Almost all sophomores took Algebra II, taught by either Mr. David Comes or Mr. Webb. This second year of algebra help to straighten out the student's problems with factoring and solving complex polynomial equations. He often thought he would be totally lost in the world of algebra, but the knowledge that he would be free of combinations and permutations his junior year encouraged him greatly.

Mr. Dave Comes chooses homework assignment problems for his Algebra II class.

For his science course, the sophomore took either Biology or Chemistry. In Chemistry, the sophomore encountered Mr. Webb and his love of exotic animals. Chemistry proved enjoyable primarily because of the labs, where he could attempt to put his book learning into investigative experiments. There was always the rumor of leveling the Science Wing, or at least the Chemistry lab, but Mr. Webb's watchful eye prevented the dream from materializing.

The sophomore's Religion curriculum consisted of Sacraments and Christian Morality, taught by either Fr. Doll or Fr. Simon. For the sophomore, there was no way of avoiding Fr. Simon. Affectionately known as Wiggie, he successfully engrained in his students the principles of each sacrament. Religion proved enjoyable because Wiggie seldom allowed for a dull moment. Discouraging arguments, Fr. Simon offered his students a choice between the "Mad African" or an atomic bomb. The students knew which to choose.

Expository Essay and Introduction to Literature were the sophomore's English classes. In Mr. Stucker's class, the sophomore was exposed to literature in a formal manner for the first time. Mr. Stucker's creative expression of spirit and his attempt at humor added a dimension to studying that is seldom found elsewhere.

The sophomore continued in the foreign language he had selected the year before: German II, French II, Latin II, or Spanish II. In Mrs. Szymanski's second year Spanish course, the sophomore expanded his knowledge of grammar, pronunciation, culture, and history. Deluded into taking Spanish under the impression that it was easy, the sophomore soon learned that not even a feminine influence could erase the work and discipline necessary to become proficient in a foreign language.

All sophomores were required to take American Government, taught by Fr. Koelzer. One of Father's unique teaching techniques that the sophomore will long remember was being sent to the library to plead with Mrs. Johnson for the correct reference book in which he would find the answer to some obscure question. Honor students, if they were really lucky, were referred to as "buffoons" or "omagons." Fr. Koelzer's wry humor helped the sophomore tolerate the boredom of the American bureaucracy.

Physical Education II, commonly known as gym class, was taught by Coach Janke. The sophomore was instructed in the fundamentals of a variety of sporting activities including football, basketball, wrestling, hockey, volleyball, boxing, softball, and soccer. Probably the most anticipated of activities was Battleball. Here was the opportunity to release some of the pent-up frustrations of the day and, if he was really lucky, take revenge upon an unsuspecting faculty member who accidentally wandered into the gym.

The novelty of being a freshman, of being new, had worn off. The end was not quite in sight. Being a senior and graduating was too far off, and yet the sophomore could at least look forward to choosing his own courses, driving to school, and being an upperclassman. The painfulness of initially becoming an adolescent was waning, and the sophomore was actually beginning to have fun.

Juniors Enjoy Diversified Studies

The junior year can best be described with three words: change, choice, and challenge.

The junior is now an upperclassman. The change from freshman year has been long in coming. It's time to rejoice.

Decisions are an important part of the junior's life. Increases in freedom and responsibility make his choices more important now than ever before. The many elective courses now open to him provide a chance to exercise these decision-making powers.

Challenge, pressure and sweat are all a part of his life. Varsity sports, approaching deadlines, leads in the musical, and an impending Gospel Project all provide the junior with new challenges. Involved in the hustle of life, the serious junior still managed to place academics first on his list of priorities.

Academically, the junior looked forward to "acing" the year. The chance to take advantage of the many elective courses and study halls offered him the hope of doing well. Although things proved to be slightly more difficult than he had anticipated, the junior found himself enjoying life more than ever.

The junior course load included Mathematics, Science, Religion, English, Social Studies, and Physical Education. If he wished, he also was able to continue in the study of a foreign language.

After taking two years of Algebra, the junior was faced with the challenge of Geometry or Geometry-Trigonometry, taught by either Mrs. Cummings or Mr. Cromwell. "Gentleman, you WILL learn," promised Mrs. Cummings, and her students soon found her statement true as they attempted to understand lines, planes, angles and points. Although the proofs, postulates, and theorems seemed limitless, the junior indeed learned the Geometry could be "an adventure."

For his Science requirement, the junior could choose between Modern Physics, Chemistry, or Advanced Biology. For those who had taken Chemistry as sophomores, Mr. Murad's Modern Physics provided an in-depth study of the physical laws of the universe. The three M's -- metrics, motion and magnetism -- provided the student with challenges most would not have sought out on their own. Doc Murad's creative use of films and laboratory experiments helped the junior along. Most left more interested in the material than when they entered.

Good News, the required junior Religion course, was taught by either Mr. McCartney or Fr. Lukas. The student was presented with both a comprehensive view of the New Testament as well as the motives and intentions of the evangelists and epistle writers. By meeting the challenge of his quarterly Epistle and Gospel Projects, the junior acquired a greater knowledge of the New Testament than he dreamed possible. Although he may not be willing to admit it too loud, the junior began to realize the Gospels were something important.

Prayer, taught by Mr. McCartney, was fun. Enticed with the idea that praying could be fun, the junior gradually came to realize that his prayer life had to become a lifestyle. Classes ranged from interpersonal communication techniques to Christian yoga postures to the sharing of bread and wine as a community meal. The junior was aware that Prayer was a truly unique learning experience.

The junior was required to take Junior Essay and one other elective. Junior Essay, taught by either Mr. Larcher, Mr. Kwiatkowski, or Mr. Britton, was an extension of the Expository Essay class the junior was required to take the previous year. The junior was given a concrete base from which to write essays and compositions. As the junior polished his writing skills, he realized how powerful his words could be.

American Literature, British Literature, and Shakespeare were three of the many electives from which the junior was able to pick in meeting his English requirement. In Mr. Stucker's British Literature class, the junior was exposed to the literary developments of another continent and culture. Authors including Chaucer, Milton, Shakespeare, Shaw, and Tennyson were studied in a manner only Mr. Stucker could present. At the end of the course the junior could not help but admit that British and American literature were really not as different as he had thought.

Criminal Justice, Military History, World Geography, Sociology, and Psychology were just a sample of the many Social Study electives offered to the student his junior year. Mr. Damasco help "enforce" his Criminal Justice class with trips to the courts and various guest speakers. The junior could not help but attain a better understanding of his rights and privileges under the law.

In Mr. Mattingly's Military History class, the junior studied the development of warfare as seen through football strategy. The Athletic Director's colorful personality and coarse warmth is always a welcomed relief from the grind of the daily schedule. Some of the more important and interesting battles studied include Carthage, the rise and fall of the Roman Empire, and the American Revolution's Battle of Yorktown.

Right: Mr. Mattingly uses visual means to show the importance of "fire power" to his Military History class.

Fr. McMenamin ingrains his motto "To learn a language one must be thorough" to his German students on a daily basis.

One of the high points of the junior's day was Physical Education III, instructed by Mr. Wolff. Taught in the pool, regular games of "animal ball," water basketball, and water polo supplemented the junior's strict lifesaving training. Though he was reluctant to dive into the pool to swim his first mile at the beginning of the semester, he was able to crawl out at the end with an unmatched feeling of pride and accomplishment.

French III, Latin III, German III, and Spanish III were also available to the interested junior who wished to continue his linguistic studies. In Dr. Russo's Latin III class, the student was faced with translating, interpreting, and understanding such great Roman orators as Cicero, Ovid, and Pliny. The work was tough, but the junior was rewarded with a great insight into the life and times of the Roman people and their government. The Latin scholar also found the foundation Dr. Russo offered helpful in his English and Religion classes. He could see a real integration of material and that felt good.

Mr. Loomis' third-year French class reviewed basic grammar forms with a concentrated effort on verb forms and vocabulary. Exploration of French literary works like L'Etranger by Albert Camus, investigation of French culture, and Mr. Loomis' anecdotes provided the junior with a deeper understanding of the French mentality.

By the end of the year, the junior was able to recognize the effects of change, choice, and challenge in his life. He was able to look back at past accomplishments with satisfaction, but was more eager to look forward to the challenges and problems he would face in the future. After all, he'd finally be a senior. He'd have senior rights and responsibilities, and he'd get a chance to attack the world his way.

Graduation Hopes Motivate Seniors

It is said that the senior year can be either the most difficult or the easiest year in a student's academic career at St. Francis. Some seniors escape school work by judiciously scheduling free periods, TA's, and "cake" classes; others take advantage of the AP courses available and do college level work. Whatever the case may be, the senior has a diversity of interesting courses in all areas from which to choose.

Each senior must take a full year of math. Most have Pre-Calculus, taught this year by Mr. Cromwell. His easygoing, laid-back approach to teaching benefited his students in that they were able to study math with less anxiety.

In Calculus, the AP math course, Fr. O'Neill started the students with an extensive review of algebra and analytic geometry before immersing them in the depths of differentiation and integration. All in all, the students learned both a great deal of math and the fact that a three to five page assignment provides a refreshing alternative to the NFC conference championship.

The sciences challenged many seniors with Physics, AP Biology, and AP Chemistry. Physics, taught by Mr. Murad, studied motion, momentum, energy, heat, and light. Only three seniors opted for Mr. Gould's AP Biology, an extensive look at the many phyla and genera within our environment.

Taught by Mrs. Kurek, AP Chemistry students undertook an in-depth study of stoichiometry, thermochemistry, the Periodic Table, organic chemistry, and, most infamous of all, laboratory experimentation.

The senior had a choice of three religion electives this year: Prayer, Specific Moral Issues, and The Church as a Developing Community.

Prayer, taught by Frs. Olszewski and Lukas, provided the senior with a truly unique learning experience. Unlike most religion courses taught at St. Francis, Prayer was directed almost totally at the affective level. Its primary goal was to help the student grow into a personal relationship with his God.

Fr. Lukas' Specific Moral Issues dealt with complex moral decisions at all levels. Seldom was a stone left unturned in the attempt to place the student's difficult life situation within a Christian context.

Mr. McCartney's The Church as a Developing Community was undoubtedly the most difficult of the three. The course was both theological and historical, and the students were required to write a research paper and a pastoral paper. Most survived the course, although rumor had it that The Church as a Developing Community gave new meaning to Marshal Petain's cry of World War I, "They shall not pass."

Mrs. Conrad enjoys doing some "active"

Seniors fill Gesu for the Baccalaureate listening" to Fr. Simon's humorous "I message" before the beginning of class.

Of course, no senior could escape Mrs. Conrad's attack on their sense of security in Christian Life-Styles. The senior studied a true amalgamation of topics, including communication, a history of marriage, the Church's reasons for forbidding premarital and extramarital sex, deviancy, male and female reproductive systems, religious and single life styles, and a host of others. Virtually every senior was an object of one of Mrs. Conrad's pointedly direct questions, but each one emerged from the class with a redefined sense of his masculinity.

There were a myriad of Social Studies courses from which the senior could pick: Constitutional History, Contemporary World Problems, Psychology, Sociology, The American Economy, Consumer Economics, American Social Problems, Ancient Civilizations, and World Geography. Of these, Psychology, taught by Mr. Kober, was the most popular. Mr. Kober's quiz-a-day approach kept the students prepared for class daily, and his relaxed style appealed to most. Some students would chew on their pencils during class, but after the course was over they knew their chewing might just be due to a fixation in their oral stage.

To fill the English requirement, seniors could choose from Science Fiction, Speech, Film Study, Forensics, and AP English.

Science Fiction and AP English, two literature courses, were taught by Mr. Kwiatkowski. Science Fiction was a speculative course concerning life in outer space and other such topics. For many, it provided an opportunity to create in a way that was totally new.

AP English students, on the other hand, read short stories and prepared their original thoughts on theme, only to have them shattered to pieces in class with Mr. Kwiatkowski's amazing new insights into life. The theme of the course depended on one's point of view, but most students learned how to analyze and work toward better insights in interpretive literature.

In the Applied Arts Department, the senior could choose from Typing Term Paper, Basic Art, and Water Safety Instructor. Mrs. O'Neal's Typing Term Paper taught the senior, first of all, how to type, and secondly, how to organize, write, and type a formal term paper. It proved for many to be an invaluable help in preparing for college.

Basic Art, also taught by Mrs. O'Neal, instructed students in the fine points of line, color, and various other artistic techniques. The serious student walked away with a much deeper appreciation of the various art styles.

Water Safety Instructor, Mr. Wolff's course, taught the senior how to teach a lifesaving and water safety course.

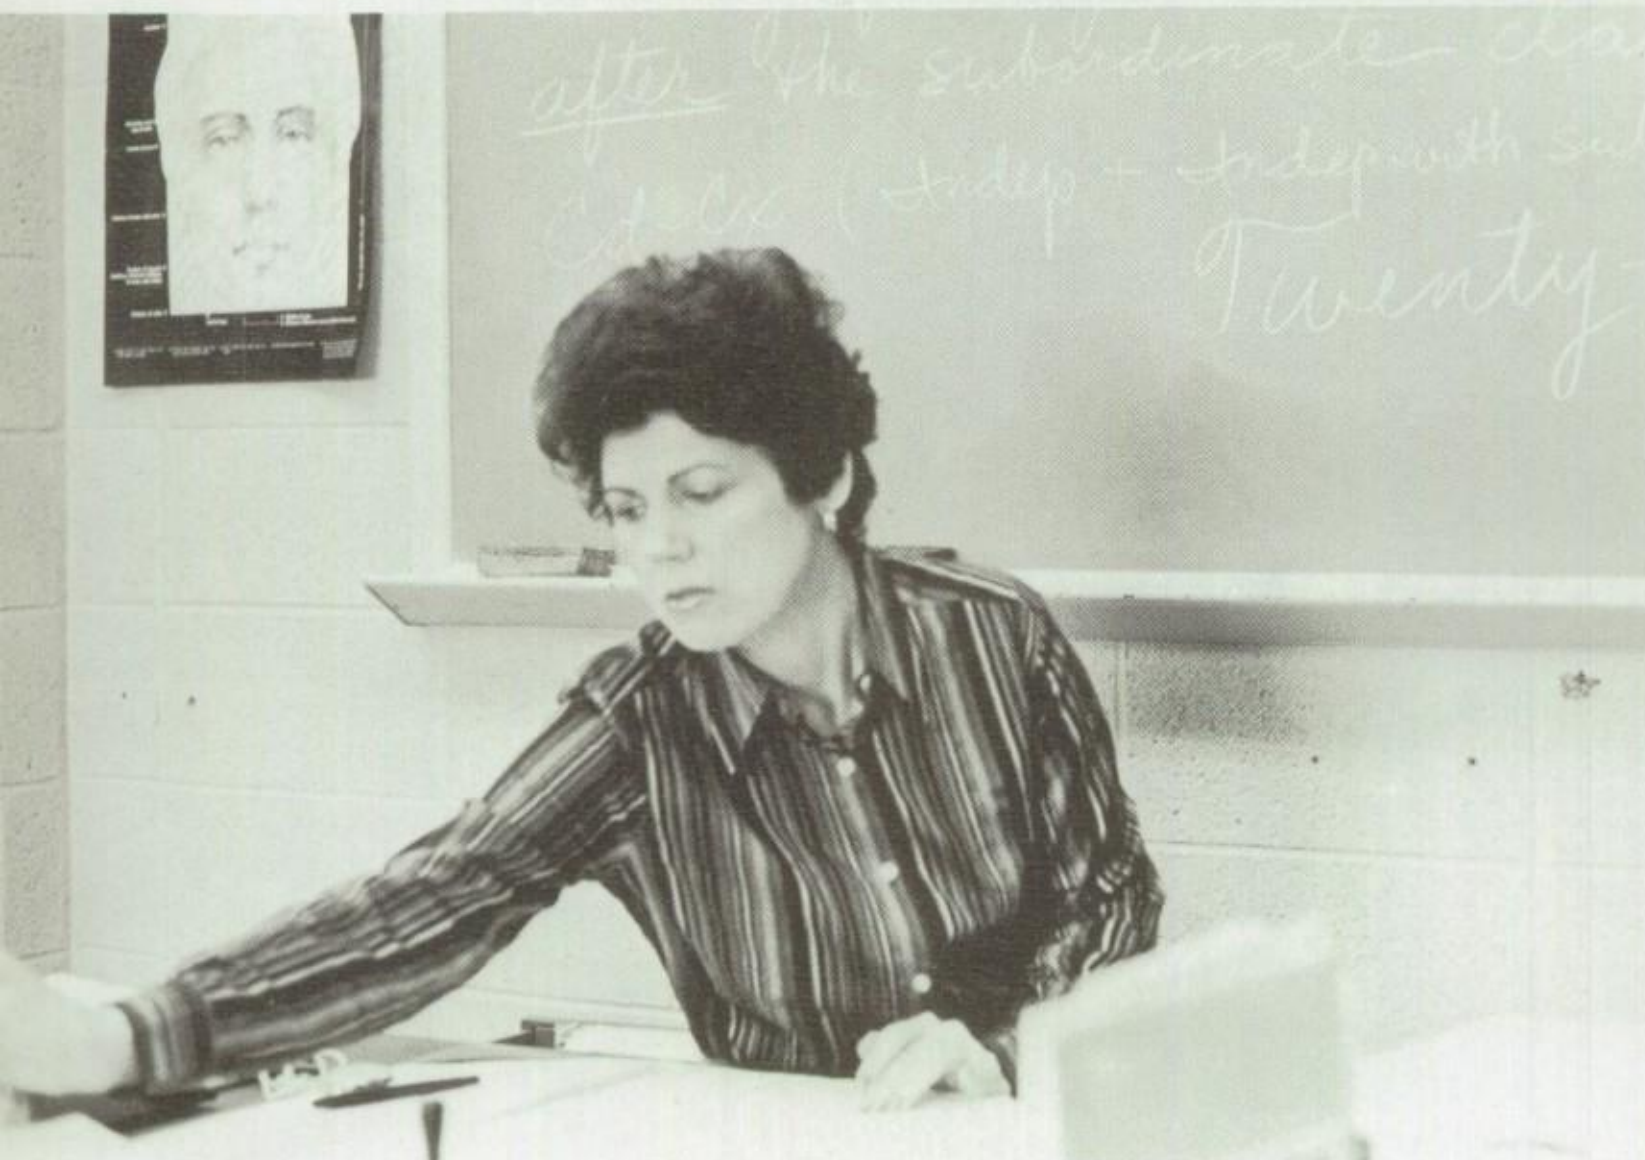

All in all, the senior's core curriculum was designed to prepare him for his next step up the academic ladder — college. As previously mentioned, some seniors enthusiastically undertook large loads of AP classes and were generously awarded with college credit when the scores of the AP tests were received. These seniors worked hard for what they got, often staying up well into the morning finishing assignments. All-nighters were not unheard of.

The question which remains is, "Does the heavy, sometimes oppressive, academic load, when combined with participation in extracurriculars, other school functions, and jobs, tend to destroy the senior's creativity?" Judging from what seniors did with projects this year, the answer could be yes and no. But time after time, the academic senior, the "study buddy," often times the object of jealous scorn and ridicule, proved that he could do other things than study.

Counselors Offer Sound Guidance

The guidance service is the compass that gives direction to all the school work at SFS. It helps students in making educational choices toward a career. If the student shows the initiative to seek advice, he finds it here.

The first of the department's services is individual counseling. It is a one-to-one interaction between a student and his counselor in an effort to answer specific questions, resolve problems, and make choices. Guidance also has an extensive information system, drawing from an elaborate college and career library housed in the college room. The information from this center is what the student relies on in forming his decisions.

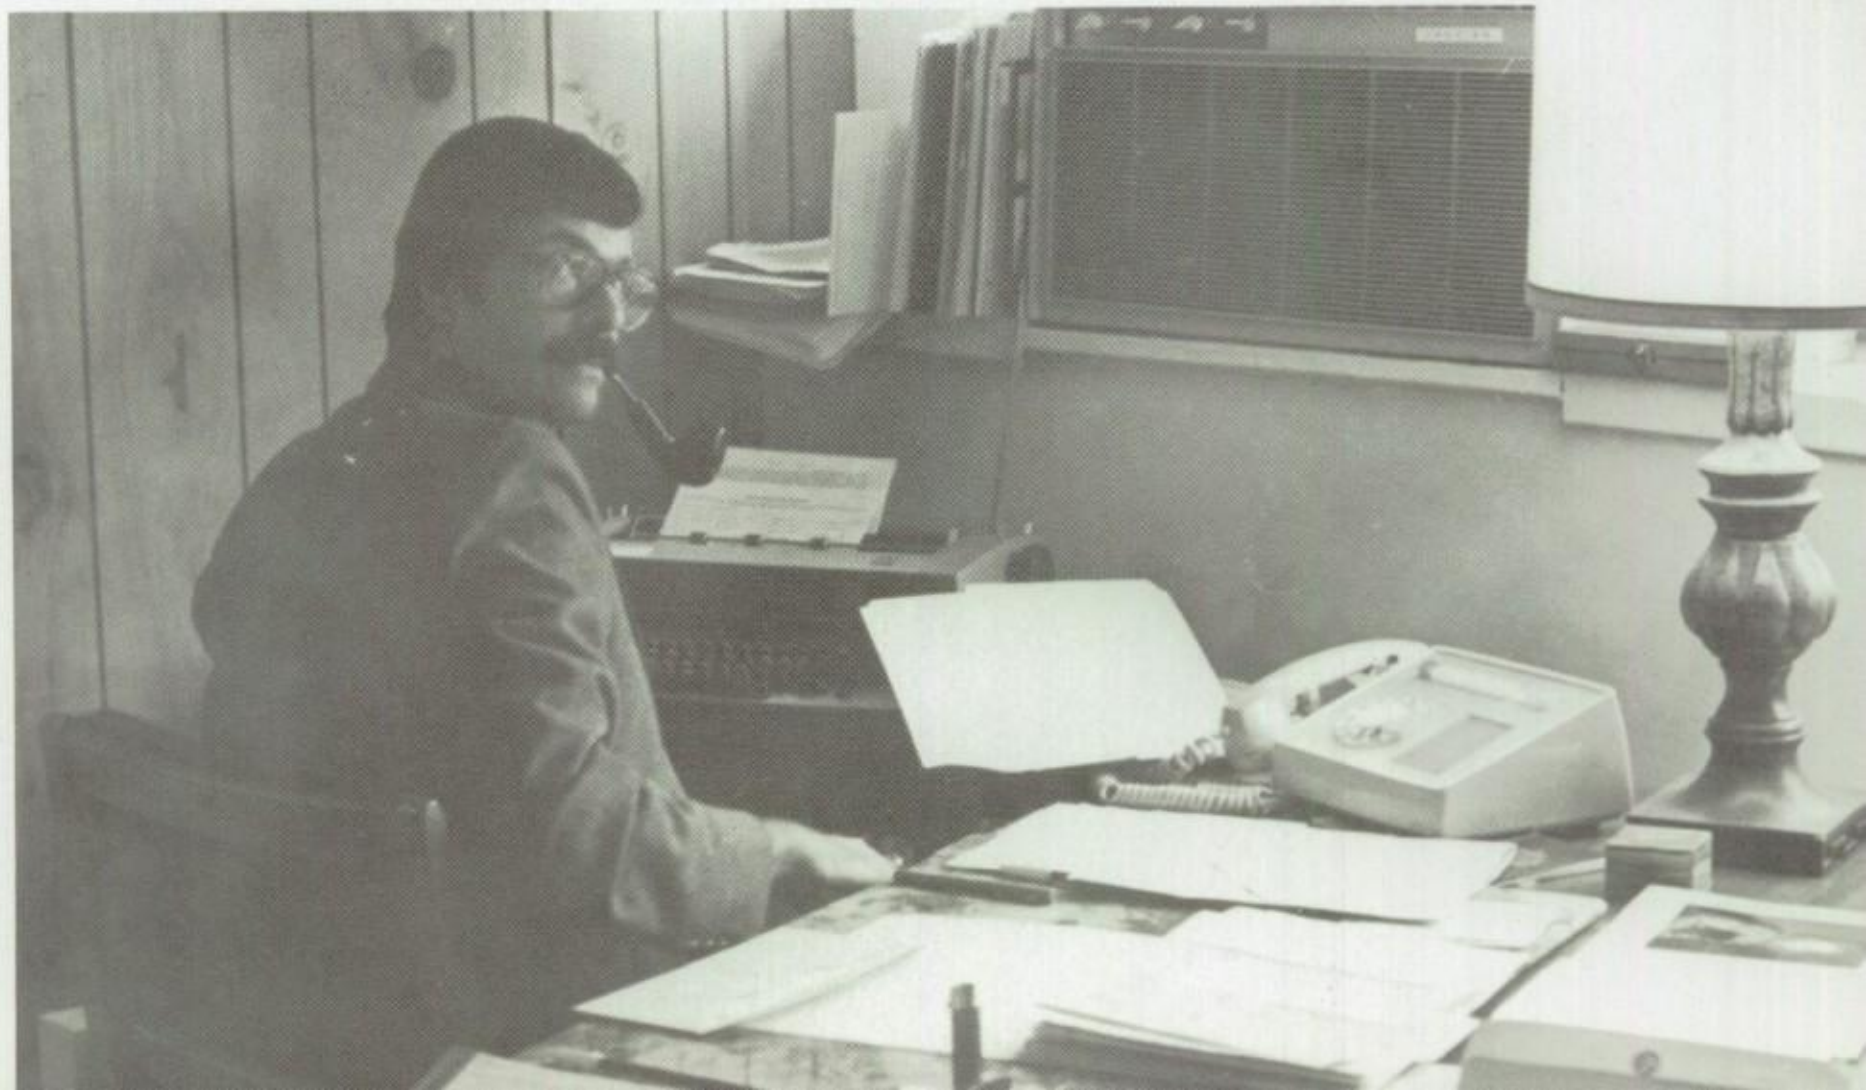

Through testing, the student's achievements, aptitudes, and interests are uncovered. After evaluation, a student is better able to determine the educational and career path for which he is best suited.

Decision -- that is the climax and goal toward which all guidance builds. College placement and the decisions concerning higher education are the purpose and culmination of all guidance work. As college counselor, Fr. Richard Feigenbaum is responsible for helping seniors obtain acceptance into college. He assists students in filling out applications as well as writing letters of recommendation and securing scholarships and grants.

COMPETITION

The first Oblates at St. Francis recognized that healthy competition was a must to round out the Christian gentleman's education. St. Francis fielded varsity teams in football, basketball, tennis, golf, and track. An intramural program, including not only football and basketball, but also volleyball, bowling, baseball, golf, tennis and chess was instituted.

Those teams carried on the tradition and sportsmanship established by the Knights of old - traditions ever present throughout Knight competition today. On any field of battle these qualities distinguish a Knight of St. Francis from anyone he meets. Perhaps that's the reason a true Knight is never afraid to proclaim, "We are the Knights and the Knights are the best!"

homecoming victory.

During the 1964 Central game, Bill Lanzinger punts from deep in his own territory as Bill Huff blocks.

Junior Greg DeLong jumps in joy as his point-after kick splits the uprights with just 17 seconds remaining on the clock in the Knights 7-6 come from behind victory against Bowsher.

As the 1979-80 school year was winding down, there was a new feeling among the returning football players. They saw Coach Cromwell's enthusiasm and confidence in them and they wanted to show it was well placed. They had shirts printed saying "Knight Football, Think State."

The feeling that this year would be special carried on into the summer. During the humid months of practice, the team suffered through the "two-a-days." They went through all the routines that make a team tough, including "the door boards, sleds and windsprints." Coach Cromwell and his assistants made sure the team was well prepared physically and mentally because the coach feels the outcome of every game is dependent upon the practice effort put in beforehand.

The 1980-81 school year dawned, the year to celebrate the Silver Anniversary of the school, and with it there developed a definite expectant feeling. There was a sense of believing in the 1980 edition of SFS football. The season began with a win over Clay on a Greg DeLong 27 yard field goal with just under four minutes remaining. The feeling grew with a win over Whitmer, something not done in five long years, and a win over Waite with quarterback Steve Dembowski throwing four touchdown passes. After being set back by Cleveland St. Edward's, the Knights crushed Rogers and followed by stomping Cardinal Stritch with Scott Moore's receptions and interceptions. After a loss to St. John's, the Knights pulled out a thriller against Bowsher with a 72 yard touchdown drive in the last two minutes with Joe Grabmeier doing the honors with a one yard touchdown plunge, followed by Greg DeLong's point-after conversion. The feeling of this year being special flourished with a 18-14 homecoming win over Central Catholic at TU's Glassbowl to keep the coveted Irish Knight and peaked with a victory over Libbey on the closing game of the regular season.

Then came something never achieved by a SFS football team: a State Playoff berth. The Knights lost in the opening round of the playoffs by a 42-10 score in a game in which they were pitted against Columbus Watterson. Despite the loss the team's perspective remained stable. It was clear to all that Knight football was again a power to be contended with in the Toledo City League.

At the post-season banquet quarterback Steve Dembowski '81 was named the team's most valuable player while senior Greg Reed was honored with the "most improved" award. Al Harberson '81 received the Coaches Award as well as the Alumni Award for being the most valuable player in the Homecoming victory. The speciality team award went to junior Louie Santiago. The "salty dog" award, an honor bestowed upon a player who is on the scout team all year, went to sophomore Greg Wilcox. The City League coaches voted seniors Steve Dembowski, Al Harberson, Rick Michalak and Scott Moore to the All-Blue team while naming Dembowski, Harberson and Moore to the All-City team.

It was obvious to any objective observer that the 1980-81 St. Francis football team was by far the best around the city.

Harriers Bring SFS Recognition with City and Sectional Championships

All-City runner senior Rob Loeb rounds the corner.

This silver anniversary year marked the rise of a new Cross Country power in the city league as the Knight harriers captured the City League Championship for the first time in St. Francis history. State tournaments saw the SFS runners win the sectionals and take a seventh place in the districts which they had been favored to win until number two man Rob Loeb was injured.

In the past the city league has been dominated by just a few teams. St. John's had won the championship for the previous four years and DeVillbiss had held the title for the three years preceding St. John's reign.

The 1979 Knight team was the first in the history of the school to go to the districts and that team returned for the '80 season almost entirely intact. The Knights continued to improve as the season progresses. The Knights lost to St. John's each time they met in the regular season, but with each meeting the St. John margin of victory was steadily decreased. Finally, in the City Championship, the Knight runners were ready and exploded to completely out-distance the rest of the field.

Six Knights made All-City honors. Seniors Rob Loeb, Pete McHugh and Jeff Rabideau were named to the first team while junior John Cramer, sophomore Bil Keeling and senior Scott Shawaker were named to the second team. The future of the team showed great promise as the freshman harriers won the City League Championship, with Nelson Shafer taking first place, and the junior varsity team placing second, with junior Mark Spinazze taking first.

Training for the 1980 season began in the spring of the 1979-80 school year. Since so many experienced runners were returning, no individual captain was picked. Instead, leadership was provided by the entire varsity squad, which consisted of five seniors, two juniors and one sophomore. Knowing their potential, coaches Mark Lewis and Gary Bryan prepared the team for a long season with many more than usual out-of-town meets. The team, too, had anticipated a very special season and purchased new uniforms with money they raised by running in a 24 hour marathon.

Varsity Soccer Starts a Winning

Usually when a school picks up a new sport, it takes several years to build a competitive team and respected program. Contrary to expectations, Coach Frank Sipos and the first varsity soccer team virtually annihilated their competition. The team rolled over their opposition the first ten games of season before they suffered their first defeat. After that the Knights lost only once more. Their 12-2 record, which gained them second place in the division might have even been better had captain Brad Pinkerton not missed the last five games with a knee injury that required surgery.

The Knights outscored their opponents with an incredible 72 goals to only 18 scored against them on the year. The St. Francis attack was led by junior forwards Chip Wood and Charlie Leslie and wings Dan Blume and Paul Spinazze. The halfback line of Tony Iannone, Terry Ervin and Matt Yeager provided the depth for the Knight's offensive domination.

On defensive the Knights were led by fullbacks Brad Pinkerton, Jeff Tuck and Keith Fournier. Tom Antonini proved to be an outstanding goalie with five shutouts on the year.

Chip Wood led all scoring with 15 goals on the year, followed by Charlie Leslie with 11 goals. Other scoring standouts included Paul Spinazze, Dan Blume, Matt Claus, Matt Yeager and Brad Pinkerton.

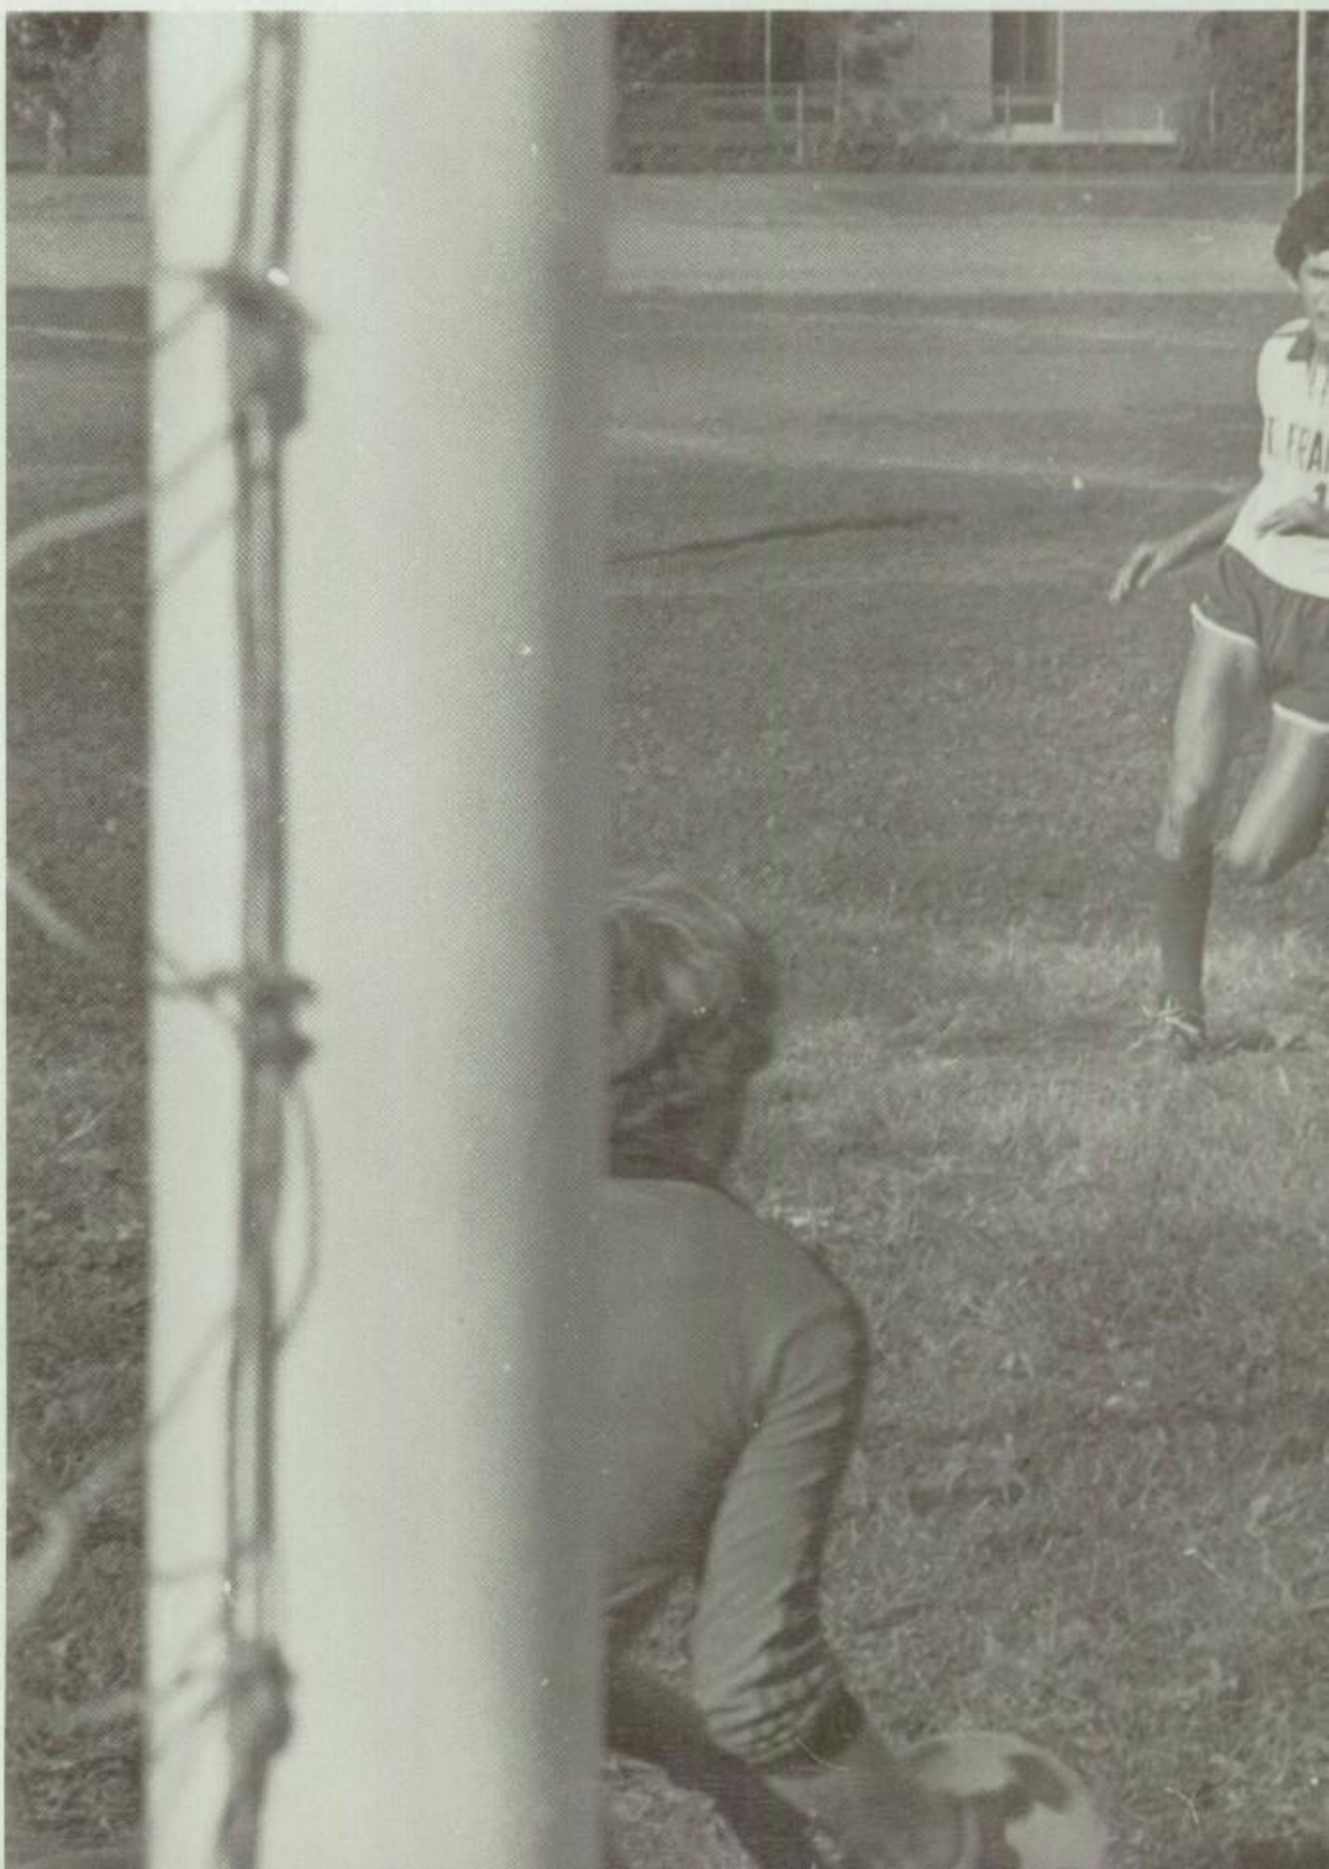

At times the team depended heavily on the strength of the reserves.

Forward Paul Spinazze follows up a shot on goal in the first home game ever at SFS.

Offensively, Matt Claus, Ken Morris, Bill Wolff and Skip Carter kept the Knight attack rolling. Defensively, Rick Hamilton, Todd Kozlowski, Mike Cassis, Chris Wonders and Don Muller thwarted the opposition.

The JV team, led by John DeWitt, Rory McDonnell, and captains Pete Shawaker and Jim Stutz, worked at developing skills in team play. The team showed potential although they went 0-4 on the season.

There are high expectations for the 1981-82 Knight Varsity Soccer Team. With the exception of seniors Pinkerton, Kozlowski, Antonini and Blume, the team will be returning intact. It is evident after one year that varsity soccer is here to stay at St. Francis.

Water Polo -- the sport that combines the physical aggressiveness of football, the fast and chaotic pace of hockey, and the technique and finesse of swimming. In a matter of 30 seconds, the ball can change hands four or five times, creating fastbreaking scores on weary, surprised defenses.

Creating some of these fastbreak opportunities were defensive players Marty Miller, Jeff Clapp, Rob Lewandowski, and Tim Miller, all seniors. On the offense junior John DiSalle and senior Dave Peterson lead the scoring in the Knights quest for a good showing at the State Tournament.

This year's team had a tough readjustment in that it lost six letterman to graduation. They did manage though, to get the ball moving in time to make a good showing at a mid-season tourney in Columbus.

The second place finish at Districts was good enough to take them to the State Finals in Cleveland. The Knights lost their first game in the single elimination tourney but managed to salvage a seventh place finish in the state.

Bowlers Attack Alleys With Gusto

8 a.m. Saturday morning is not the usual time a Knight awakens to battle an opponent in his respective sport. The Bowling teams are an exception. The 9 a.m. starting times require an ounce more dedication than most are willing to give.

Concentration is the key to bowling. Styles differ among individuals, and no one style is the "right" style. It's the bowler who can put all his energies into knocking down ten small pins time after time who succeeds.

St. Francis fields one Varsity and three Junior Varsity teams. At mid-season, each of the four teams claimed winning records.

Bowling, although not as intellectual, is a great deal like chess. Team members support one another because there is virtually no support from the student body. Those who commit themselves to honoring St. Francis in the unknown sports deserve special recognition.

In position, Randy Rosler waits for signal to begin competition in the backstroke.

After stretching and diving into the water for the first time, the swimmer realizes that a season of hard training lies ahead. After a few days the soreness and boredom of lap after lap begins to set in. Just when the endurance and speed begin to return, Coach Wolff says things are going to get tough. "Gentlemen, Monday we're going to begin morning practices. That means being in the water no later than 6:15." For the next two and one half months the double workouts leave the swimmer physically drained day after day.

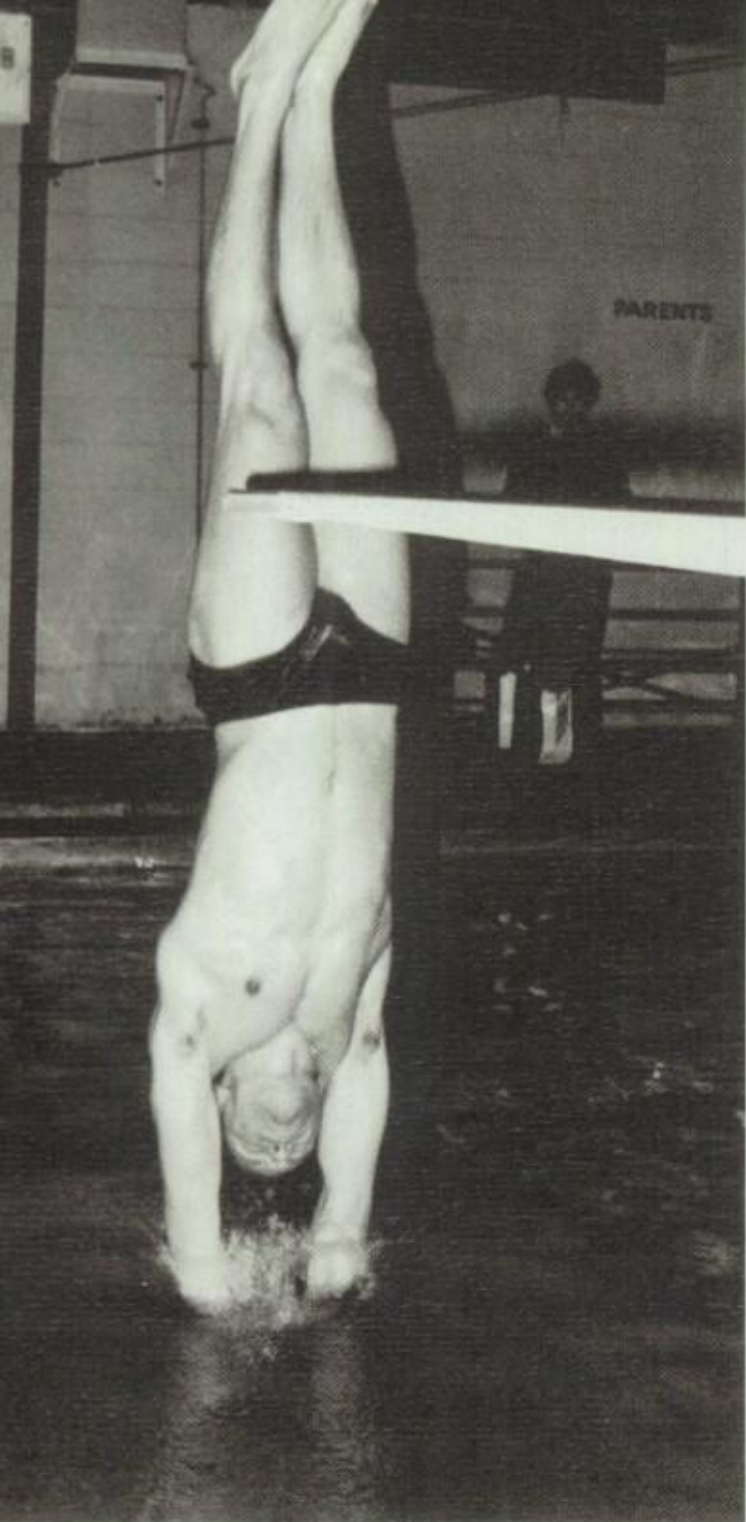

According to Coach Wolff, this year's team worked harder than any other team he's coached in the past four years at St. Francis. Considering the quality teams St. Francis has produced, that statement is indeed an honor.

The Knights began the season by dominating the Viking Invitational while setting personal and meet records. The team then went 4-0 in their home meets, beating the likes of Upper Arlington and 10 year State Champions Cincinatti St. Xavier. After conquering the Aqua-Bombers of St. Xavier, the Knights went on to win their 16th consecutive District Championship. The 1980-81 Aqua Knights continued in the fine tradition of swimming excellence for which St. Francis is so well known. They were a Knight team in the truest of traditions.

Icers Skate Fiercely in Match Play

The 1980-81 SFS hockey team was similar to the teams of years past. This year saw the usual vicious checks that sent bodies flying, blistering slap shots and wrist shots, all out skating, and, of course, numerous penalties. This intensity is part of what makes hockey so appealing.

The stakes were a little higher this year than in past years, though. This year's team played Central Catholic for the Irish Knight Cup for the first time. It was mid-January when the Knights took on the Irish in front of a crowd of 1700 at the Sports Arena. With tension and fear running high, the Knights broke out in full force early and never looked back. When the final buzzer rang out the Knights were the victors by a 5-2 score. The Irish Knight Cup came home to rest along side its brother, the Irish Knight football trophy.

As for the rest of the season, the Knights placed third in their division behind Waite and Woodward. Following the City League playoffs, the Knights capped off their season of long, hard work with a trip to Toronto in early March.

Grapplers' Individual Efforts Help to Rebuild SFS Wrestling Dynasty

Team unity, a winning tradition and aggressive wrestling are the goals that head coach Carl Janke has set for his team. Dedication and obedience are two qualities he demands.

To be a good wrestler a person must have a combination of strength, stamina, knowledge and, above all, experience. Coach Janke takes care of all these areas. Strength, stamina and knowledge come from the two hour practices in the wrestling room. At practice, the basics are taught — takedowns, escapes and reversals. Team and individual weaknesses are corrected by constant drilling.

Stamina comes from the full-situation wrestling and daily running. Physical strength comes from the after practice conditioning and weight lifting. Mental strength comes from the one-on-one competition and the discipline of careful weight watching.

Experience is the final ingredient. "To get better you have to wrestle the best." Coach Janke stands by these words and the wrestling schedule proves it. The St. Ed's Tournament, the Catholic Invitational Tournament, and the weekly tri-matches, with competitors such as Cardinal Stritch, Bedford and Sandusky, are tough.

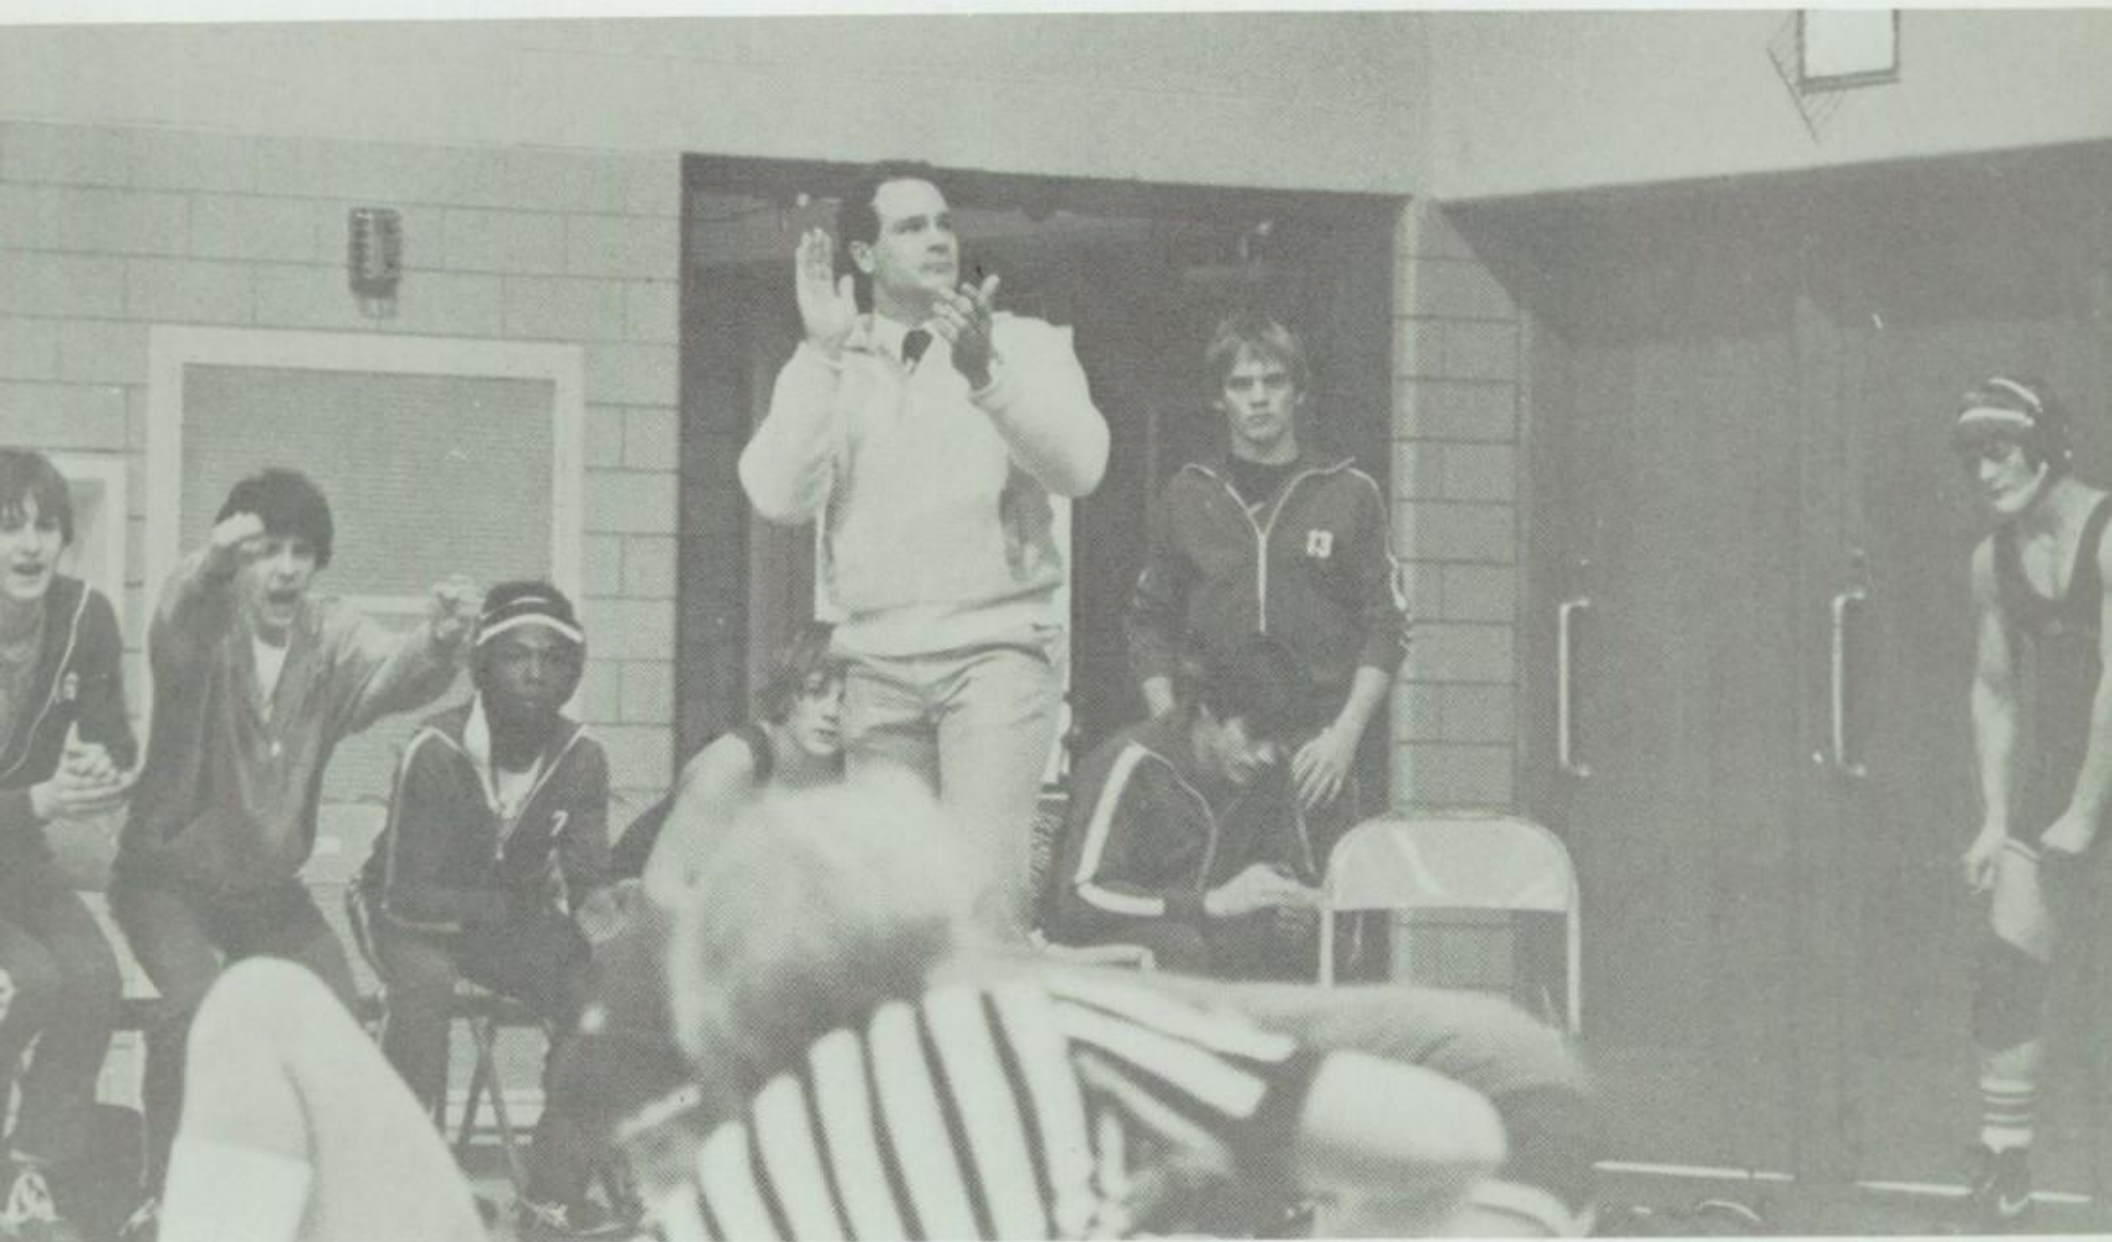

With the continued emphasis on the development of these basic fundamentals, it won't be long before St. Francis rebuilds its wrestling dynasty.

Basketball Team Gains Experience

If anything will be remembered about the 1980-81 basketball season, it will be the "never say die" spirit of the team, coaches and fans. At any time during the season, it would have been easy to stop fighting, to stop hustling, to stop cheering. This never happened, though. After all, this is a St. Francis Knights basketball team.

The season began dismally. Four days before the opening game at Bowsher, Phil McHugh broke his jaw. He would join injured Scott Grant on the bench for several weeks. Bowsher defeated the Knights 83-45. The cagers lost their next six games, including a two point loss to Clay. 1980 ended with the Knights 0-7.

And then, finally, the tide began to turn for the better. The Knights began the new year by putting a scare into both St. John's and Macomber before losing. Scott followed.

The Knights came into the game 0-9, while Scott came in as one of the top teams in Toledo. The Pit was filled to capacity. Scott led by 13 going into the last quarter, dominating the tempo. But, little by little, St. Francis took over. Mark Hensley kept sinking foul shots, Joe Fischer kept hitting from underneath, Phil McHugh kept directing the attack, the volume of the crowd grew louder and louder, and Shawn Reid kept hitting long bombs. When the game was over, the fans poured onto the floor, the nets came down, and the scoreboard showed the Knights a 74-72 victor, one of the most thrilling SFS wins in years.

Misfortune struck again with Chris Lackney tearing cartilage and tendons. Knee surgery forced him to sit out the rest of the season. Despite the setback, the cagers went on to record victories over Cardinal Stritch, Waite, Woodward, and Northview to close out the regular season.

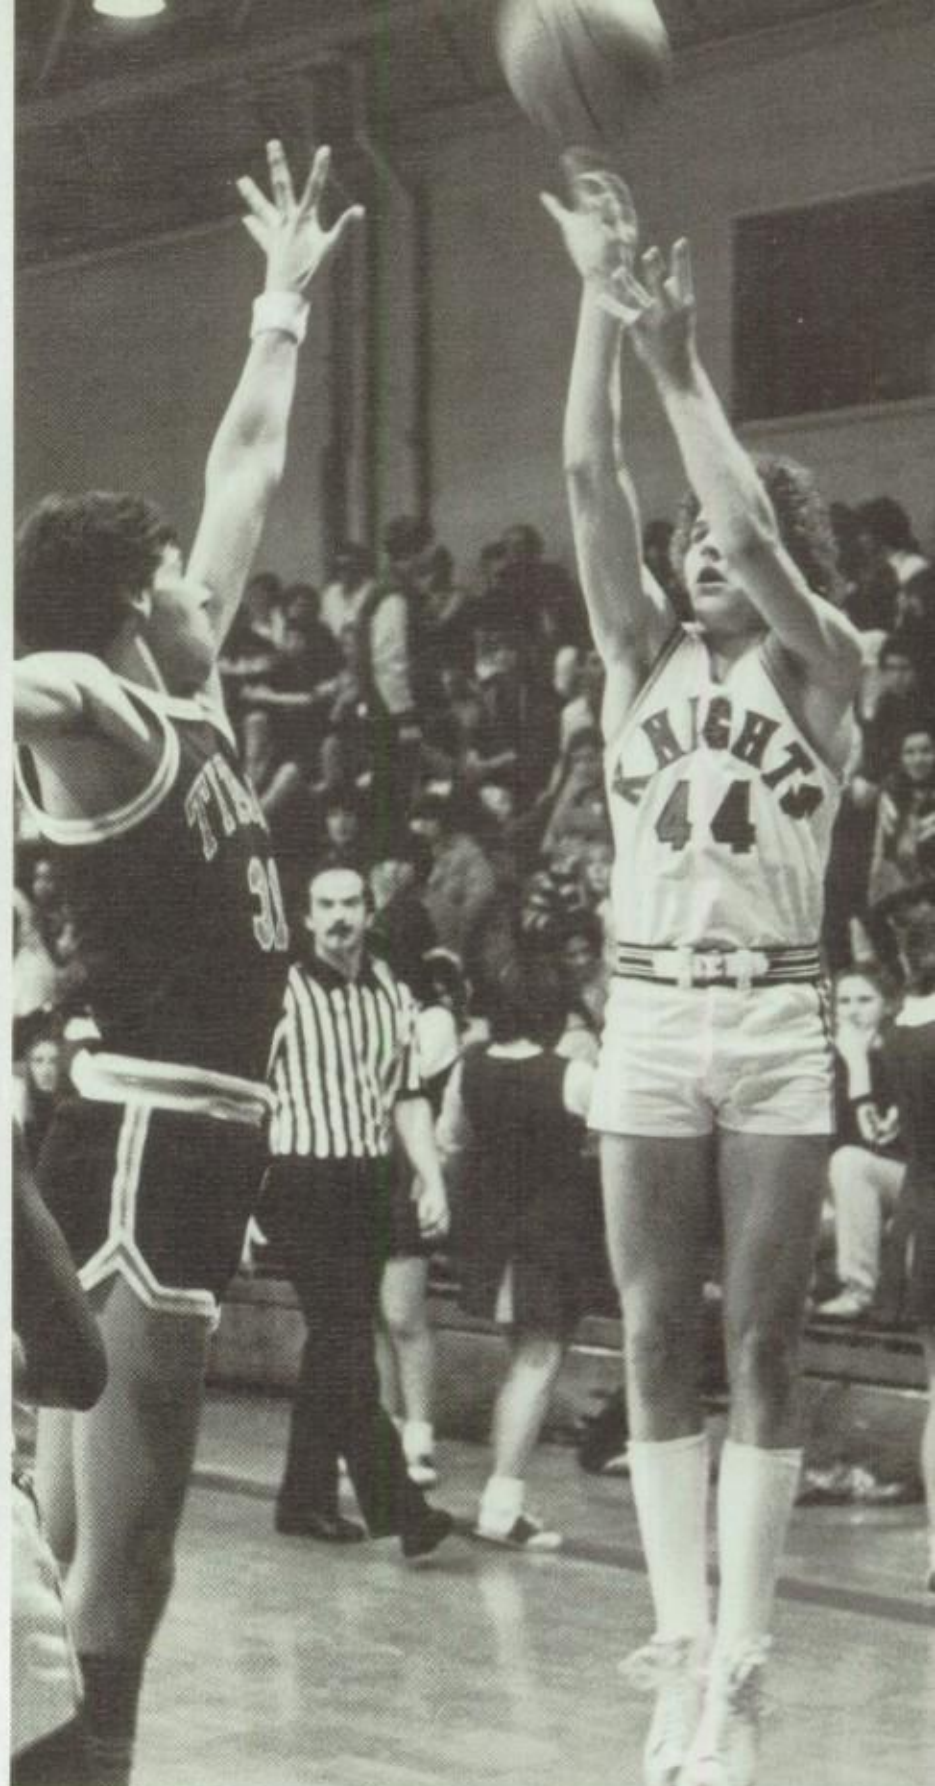

This year's team did not have a winning record. Yet, it has much in which it can be proud. It played as a unit. With the support of the fans, it never gave up. It remained true to the highest tradition at SFS.

Golf Team

The 1980 golf season saw the Knights, with only one senior, take third in the City League. The team was led by senior Mark Burgmaier, a first team All-City selection, and sophomore Eric Bajas, a second team All-City selection. Burgmaier had four medals on the season while Bajas picked up seven.

The season started slow for the Knights as they dropped two of their first three matches, but they soon got on track and won ten of their next twelve decisions. The team finished the season with a 13-7 overall record. They registered a 13-3 City League record.

The Knights concluded the 1980 campaign by finishing sixth in the sectionals. Highlighting the team, along with Burgmaier and Bajas, were Rich Hornyak, Kent Orcutt, and honorable mention All-City Ken Filipiak.

Intramurals Promote School Spirit

A distinguishing feature of SFS is its intramural sports program. Intramural competition pits one homeroom against another in one of a variety of sports. Its purpose is to help promote class spirit and comradery as well as provide the non-varsity athlete a chance to compete with his classmates.

The rules allow any individual to play with the exception of varsity members of the particular sport. There is a 35 cent player fee which is used to buy trophies for the champions.

Whether it be football, basketball, bowling or softball, the most important things to remember are, one, it's only a game, and two, it's just for the fun of it.

"The way to get the most out of a victory is to follow with another which makes it look small."

Henry H. Haskins

The 1981 SFS chess team appeared to ingrain Haskins words in their play. After three rebuilding seasons filled with three practices a week, independent study, and constant reviewing of past games, this year's team put together its best season ever, winning the Blue Division title in both Varsity and Junior Varsity categories.

The team, consisting of six seniors, three sophomores, and one freshman, successfully mastered this mental sport which requires strategy, concentration, and futuristic thinking.

This year was the Knight's first appearance in the state tournament, where the team captured the "Top New Team" award and finished 15th in a field of 35.

Brains Battle in Fierce Competition

St. Francis, in the finest of traditions, fielded an exceptionally strong Quiz Bowl team in its anniversary year. In semi-weekly bouts, the Knights methodically wiped out city-wide competition, losing only to Sylvania Northview. Not only did the Quiz Bowl team do well in the City League, but it also did well on WTVG-TV's year long season by advancing into the later rounds.

Debate Talk Their Way to Success

Forensics, simply put, is the vital art of communication. Members compete in many events, some of which are debate, extemporaneous speaking, and humorous interpretation. Traveling to places as diverse as Detroit, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and as far away as New Mexico, this year's squad took home over 58 different trophies and awards, making for a very successful year. At the State District Qualifying Tournament in Findlay, St. Francis advanced all its debate teams to the State Finals in Athens.

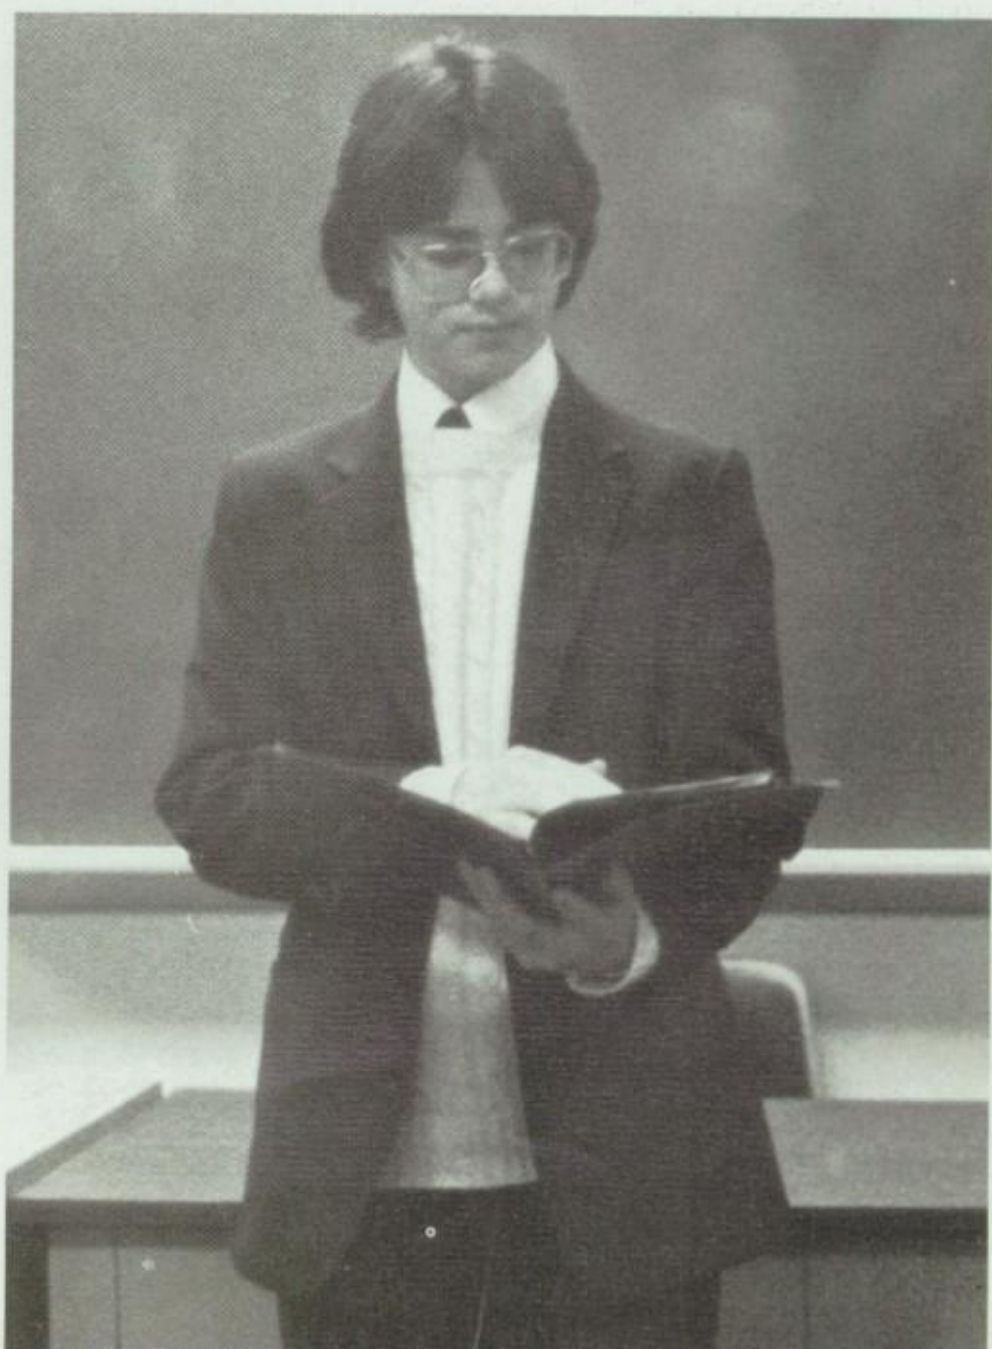

Head coach Mr. Bob Larcher, now in his third year, attributes the success to the hard work and dedication of the team members. While much of Forensics is filled with the elation of winning, hours of practice are needed to fill that goal. Debaters spend most of their free time researching at the library and preparing their files for the coming tournaments. Many times, individual eventers stay well past regular school hours perfecting their speeches.

students competed in the 1980 Golden Knight Invitational Tournament. Some 26 schools from all over Ohio, Michigan, and Pennsylvania attended the two-day event.

Pacing this year's squad were juniors Erik Bernhoffer, Quentin Jung, Eric Karolak, Tom Morris, and sophomores Karl Fernandes, Ken Cairns, and Bill Walasinski. With the strength of a large returning squad from last year, Mr. Larcher put together a 27-man roster, one of the largest in the state.

Despite a few setbacks this season, the future does look bright for the Forensics team. Looking ahead, Mr. Larcher commented, "... St. Francis is already being recognized as a State powerhouse. The experience, depth, and consistency are unparalleled in the school's history. With all the varsity members returning, I can see the potential for the most powerful squad in Ohio."

SPIRIT=School Pride and Honor

Webster defines spirit as an animating or vital principle held to give life to physical organisms. Little does he know how right he is.

St. Francis thrives on spirit. Spirit is seen in hat day, shoe day, dress-down day, color day, everyday. Spirit is sign painting, bridge painting, car ticket selling, hockey 'spirits' selling, Funarama ticket selling and button wearing.

Spirit is heard in thundering bleachers at games and rallies, in hands red and sore from clapping and in screaming cheers that leave the lungs sore and the voice hoarse.

Spirit is also the factor that makes a team something other than a group of individuals playing a game together. This spirit leads to pride. Spirit is pride.

Spirit resides in activities other than athletics, fund-raising campaigns and fun times. Spirit is evident in student government, debate, chess, the ACCOLADE and Lance, academics and dramatics. Spirit lives in everything students do as a team.

When you've done all that you possibly can and KNOW IT, that's spirit!

Yes, Mr. Webster, you are right. Spirit does give life to physical organisms. Spirit gives life to St. Francis.

Cheerleaders Promote Enthusiasm

Rallies were anticipated by students for a number of reasons: a short schedule, a chance to show spirit and support for the big games, an opportunity to get a little rowdy, but probably most of all ..... the cheerleaders.

The eight varsity and six JV cheerleaders are charged with the inevitable job of keeping spirit soaring during winning streaks and bolstering spirit during the slumps. It's their enthusiasm, along with various cheers, chants and routines, that encourages the student body to show their spirit.

After school it was not surprising to see students do a double-take in the hallways or on the front lawn of the school. The cheerleaders could be seen practicing every Tuesday and Thursday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. For the careful planner, staying after school to serve a JUG had its advantages.

ACTIVITIES —

St. Francis isn't all sports or academics. The Oblates have always provided a wealth of other activities to help complete the student's education. In the beginning, an active student council was stressed to educate young men in government. A dramatics club staged several shows annually. The Music Department struggled to maintain 16 members so the school could field a marching band. The chemistry club, radio club, and photography club kept student interest. The ACCOLADE was established as the school yearbook and The Lance as the school newspaper.

Today, some of these organizations are no longer active. The "club" went by the wayside in the shifting of values that took place between 1955 and 1980. Other activities, primarily athletic and academic, have been formed to take their place. This section presents those activities that round out a Knight education.

Fall Production Entertains All

After an absence of two years, the fall play returned to St. Francis for the 1980-81 school year. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Stucker, students from St. Francis, Notre Dame and St. Ursula joined in performing the classic comedy Life with Father. The play, written by Howard Lindsey and Russel Crouse in the early part of this century, was the longest running play ever to appear on Broadway.

Work for the production began in early September and didn't end until November 16, closing night of the three day run.

Life with Father brought many new changes. Instead of performing in the gym, the cast put the show on in Multi-Purpose Room 100. Another change involved the audience sitting cabaret-style, with popcorn and punch served courtesy of the cast. These changes added a spark of informality to the production.

Vinnie unwraps the needlework as Cora (Kathy Mitchum) looks on patiently.

The drama productions that St. Francis students put on are ranked as some of the best in Northwest Ohio. This is not only due to the quality actors, but also to the elaborate sets built entirely by the stage crew.

With the aid of the academies, set construction and scenery is organized and built with the dedication and enthusiasm necessary to remain after school for two to five hours a night for five to eight weeks for little public recognition. Past productions which have involved exceptionally elaborate scenery include West Side Story, Oklahoma, and last year's Anything Goes.

This year, however, the stage crew's endeavors took on a new twist. The fall play, Life with Father, was produced in the newly constructed Multi-Purpose Room 100. Since the room was not built as a theater, a separate and portable stage had to be constructed to house the single massive set. The audience, seated cabaret-style, was as close as two feet to the stage, which added another challenge to the construction of the set. The small details that are not necessary for the large spring productions put on at Start's professional stage were now necessary to ensure set quality.

Musical Groups Entertain School

From the moment the new band member takes his first step onto the football field for a half time show, he becomes involved in the tradition of musical performances for which St. Francis is known. There are five musical organizations to which a band member may belong: the Marching Band, the Concert Band, the Dance Band, the Pep Band and the Musical Orchestra.

Beginning early in August, the Marching Band drills for hours upon end to prepare half time shows for the football games. Under the direction of Sr. Jeanne Marie Rowan, OSU, Band Directress, and junior Kevin Edwards, drum major, the band, along with the flag corp, composed of girls from Notre Dame and St. Ursula, produces memorable performances. Probably the most rewarding of these was the state playoff half time show which presented music from The Wiz.

With the close of the football season, the Marching Band transformed itself into the more refined Concert Band. The Concert Band performed a Spring Concert and provides the music for the commencement exercises.

Another dimension of the Knight musical organization is the Dance Band. Performing a repertoire from early swing to modern jazz-rock, the Dance Band plays at special occasions around the Toledo area, including an engagement at Southwyck Mall.

Providing entertainment for the home basketball games is the responsibility of the Pep Band. Composed primarily of members of the Marching Band, the Pep Band gives the student's spirit a lift when the team is down and keeps their enthusiasm high when the team is rolling.

With long hours of sitting and practicing with the rehearsing cast and chorus of the spring musical, the Musical Orchestra may seem to be the epitome of drudgery. Most members would not agree with such a statement. Beginning in February and continuing through the nights of the April performances, the Musical Orchestra brings Broadway tunes to life for the capacity crowds that fill Start's theater.

All of these activities require funding, much of which is provided by the band members themselves. In late September each year, all members visit the banks and shopping malls of Toledo for one weekend to solicit contributions. The 1980-81 year saw the return of nearly $12,000, a record high. Perhaps this dedication is the best example of the pride students have in the band.

ACCOLADE Staff Creates Special

The 1980-81 ACCOLADE has attempted to present a fair history of the school year. Beginning in late August with organizational planning and picture taking, the workload increased throughout the next six months until it reached its climax the third and fourth week in February with the final deadline.

Presenting an accurate history of the year is a challenge in the truest sense. Temptations often set in to play up the good things and to play down those activities and events that were not successful. There is also the temptation to play "favorites," to give additional space to those areas that are of personal interest to the staff members and editors. This year's staff was almost always successful in resisting these temptations.

Privileged with the opportunity to put together a special book chroniloging the 25 years of growth in this school, the editors attacked ALL aspects of school life. Jerry Bradner, as editor-in-chief, organized, planned photographs, designed all layouts, and hounded the leaders of the school so as to be accurate in the material presented. An unusual feature in his work was that, unlike past years, he was able to do this with very few assistants.

Chuck Scott, as photo editor, spent numerous hours taking pictures and even more time in the darkroom developing and printing quality photographs. The quality of this year's photography stands as a lasting statement to his expertise and dedication. Scott Shawaker, as copy editor, assigned and edited the stories that appear throughout the book. He was often confronted with the challenge of rewriting much of the copy the staff writers submitted.

All told, with time after school, long weekends, and vacation time, the three editors, along with advisor Mr. John McCartney, put 2000 hours of work in putting together the book.

Other areas that involved special commitments include Marty Miller's work on developing and printing much of the color found in the book as well as the four assistants to the editors, Ken Blochowski, Matt Davis, Dan Mominee, and Tim Warren, and their willingness to do what had to be done immediately. This year's book stands as a creative attempt of these nine individual's desire to serve SFS.

Under the direction of Mr. James Kwiatkowski, who returned after a one year leave of absence, volume 24 of The Lance undertook the job of reporting the current highlights of the school year.

The staff worked hard at presenting a number of interesting articles, ranging from the successes of football, soccer and cross country seasons to the innovative eighth grade recruitment program. Jim Teiper's weekly features on techniques in subversive classroom behavior and Rob Scott's cartoons added to the creativeness and popularity of the paper. Movie, concert and album reviews also proved to catch the reader's eye.

The Lance provide all who worked on its production a true learning experience. The quality of the paper could not be surpassed in the Toledo area.

Student Council Provides Initiative

From the beginning, the Oblate Fathers emphasized the role of an active student council to college preparatory education. They felt it was an extra-curricular activity that would add to the well-rounded image of the St. Francis student by teaching him leadership skills important to future success. The first Student Council was a responsible, guiding force in school life. Today's Student Council endeavors to carry on the same tradition of excellence established 25 years ago.

Student Council acts as a link between the student and the administration. It allows the student to voice his opinions and ideas to a group who is willing to listen and attempt to act. Together, students work at solving their own problems.

SFS's student government caters to the most diverse group of people — the students themselves. Student Council officers are called to involve themselves in all facets of student affairs. Together, they attempt to unite the student body into a single spirited force commonly concerned with the people and attitudes at St. Francis. Canned good collections, dances, pep rallies, liturgies and homecoming events are a few activities designed to meet this goal.

Excellence in student government is synonymous with activity. The activity of this year's Council stands as a sign of its commitment to student service.

EVENTS

In the past Knights always looked forward to special events to break the monotony of the school year. School plays provided cultural and humorous entertainment. Separate Junior and Senior proms were the high point of the school year, while regular sock hops provided a chance to relax after a tough week. Homecoming parades and pep rallies helped psyche students up for the really big games. Mass, retreats, and benedictions encouraged the student to live his faith in his daily life.

Today, a Knight's education revolves around many of the same special events, modified with time, and of course, some new ones. Old or new, however, all Knight activities are demonstrations of the true spirit of pride and commitment Knights have for St. Francis de Sales High School.

Ceremony Highlights SFS Growth

Since its opening in 1955, St. Francis de Sales High School has enjoyed a reputation of being one of the finest college prep schools in the area. This distinction is especially evident in the area of science. St. Francis is the only school in the area to require each student to study four years of science. In addition, advanced placement science courses are offered for possible college credit. Past years have also produced student scholarships and awards for projects and achievements in science.

In order to pursue further and higher levels of excellence in science and to help alleviate the problem of overcrowding in the science labs, the faculty and friends of St. Francis decided to undertake the construction of a new science wing.

While the whole school watched, ground was broken on September 24, 1979. The extension was completed in June, 1980. The new wing consists of new chemistry and physics labs, along with a large all-purpose room and a research laboratory. In addition to the new wing, the old biology lab was renovated and the other labs were converted to lecture rooms.

The campaign raised close to one million dollars which, along with the new wing, helped finance the construction of a dramatics workshop and the installation of storm windows throughout the school building.

Fr. Ronald Olszewski, principal, spoke of the construction when he said, "It symbolizes our commitment to the people and growth of Toledo, and it symbolizes the commitment of our parents, benefactors, and alumni to St. Francis."

On September 14, 1980, St. Francis de Sales High School celebrated the dedication of its new science wing. That second Sunday of September was a day of celebration for all because it marked the commemoration of 25 years of excellence in science. On hand to concelebrate the Mass were more than 30 Oblates, many of whom had taught at St. Francis in years past, led by principal concelebrants Fr. Robert Healy, Ronald Olszewski and Paul Grehl. After the Mass, the new wing was dedicated by the Most Rev. John A. Donovan, Apostolic Administrator of the Diocese of Toledo.

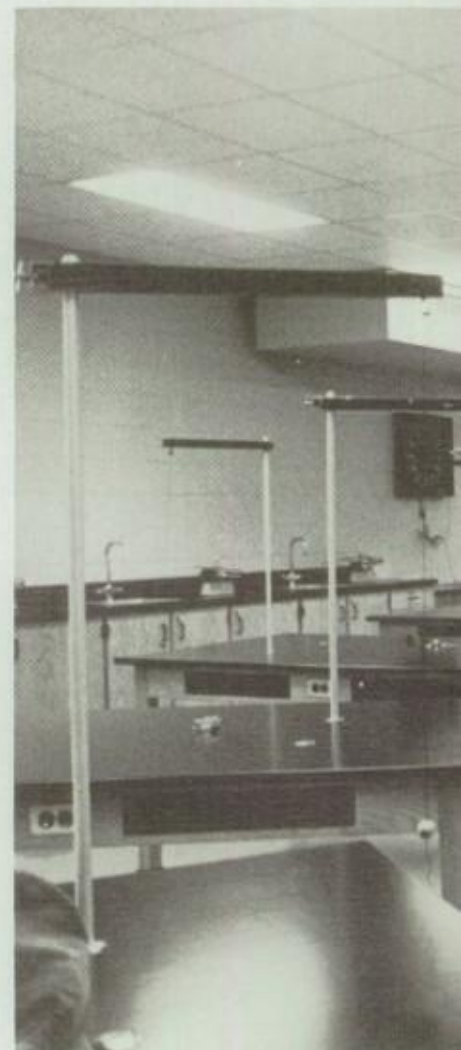

This year St. Francis de Sales High School was honored with the 1980 Kreyer Award for an outstanding science program. Each year 12 schools in the state of Ohio receive this distinction, which is sponsored by the Battelle Memorial Institute and the Ohio Academy of Science. On November 5, 1980, Dr. William Easterly, professor at Bowling Green State University, presented the award to the Science Department faculty of St. Francis. Along with a plaque and the recognition of a fine program, the school received a monetary award of $250.

'80 Homecoming Celebrates

The bright lights, the beautiful girls, the brilliant colors and the feeling of success were all present when the Knights opened their homecoming show, "On Broadway." Preparations for the "show" began weeks in advance with float building, hallway and gym decorationing, bid designing and the selection of the homecoming court. Finally, opening night arrived. The air was tense as the curtain rose.

For the first time in ten years the homecoming game was against Central Catholic and not even the downpour of freezing rain could have ruined the spirit and vigor of the Knights. At halftime, the "stars" of the show, the 1980 Homecoming Queen, Molly Lynch, St. Ursula Academy, and her court were presented. The Knights were victorious, 18-14, as Act I ended on a high note. Now onto Act II -- the dance.

The gym was transformed into a miniature New York City with the Statue of Liberty, the Empire State Building, a night skyline and Central Park. The evening's entertainment was provided by Tammany Hall. The Knights had truly put on a show worthy of being "On Broadway."

Dances Liven Up Weekend Blahs

"What a dull night!"
"Boooooorrring!"
"What should we do?"
"I dunno -"

Sound familiar? For many students, this was the typical Saturday night conversation. St. Francis sometimes offered an alternative to the situation. A student could attend a Student Council Dance in the Pit, listen to the band, meet a few new girls and go out to get some food afterward.

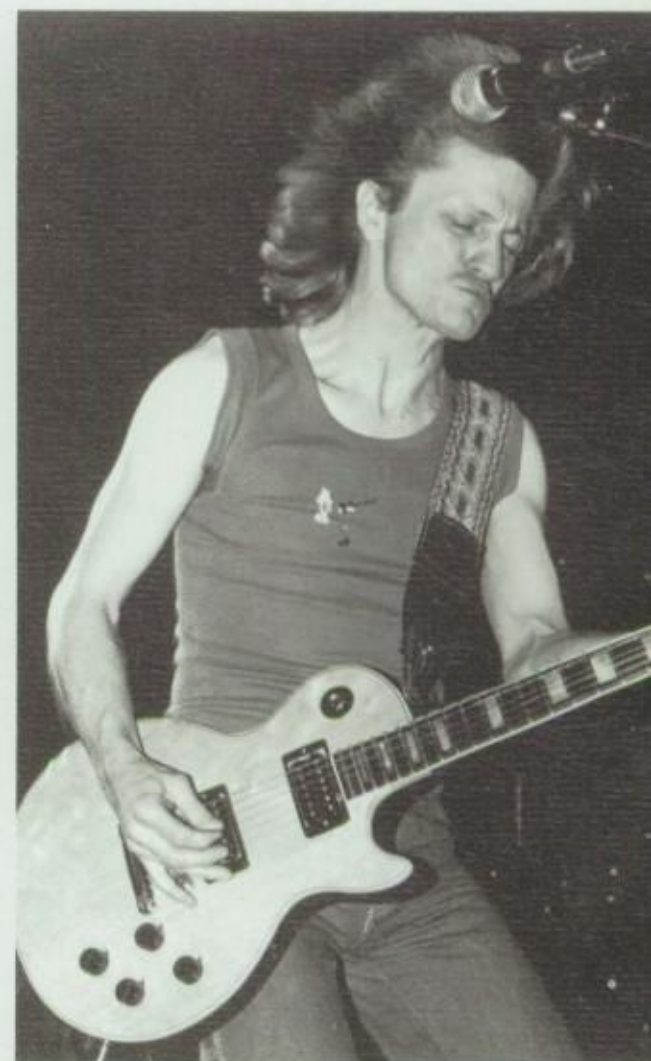

It has been said that the dances here at St. Francis are some of the area's finest. Bands like Equinox and a return performance by Ruby Jones packed the gym with people from St. Ursula, Notre Dame, St. John's, Central and Ottawa Hills. The music was loud, the people were there and a good time was had by all.

"IT IS I WHO AM THE BREAD OF LIFE.
HE WHO COMES TO ME WILL NEVER BE HUNGRY.
HE WHO HAS FAITH IN ME WILL NEVER KNOW THIRST."

JOHN 6:35

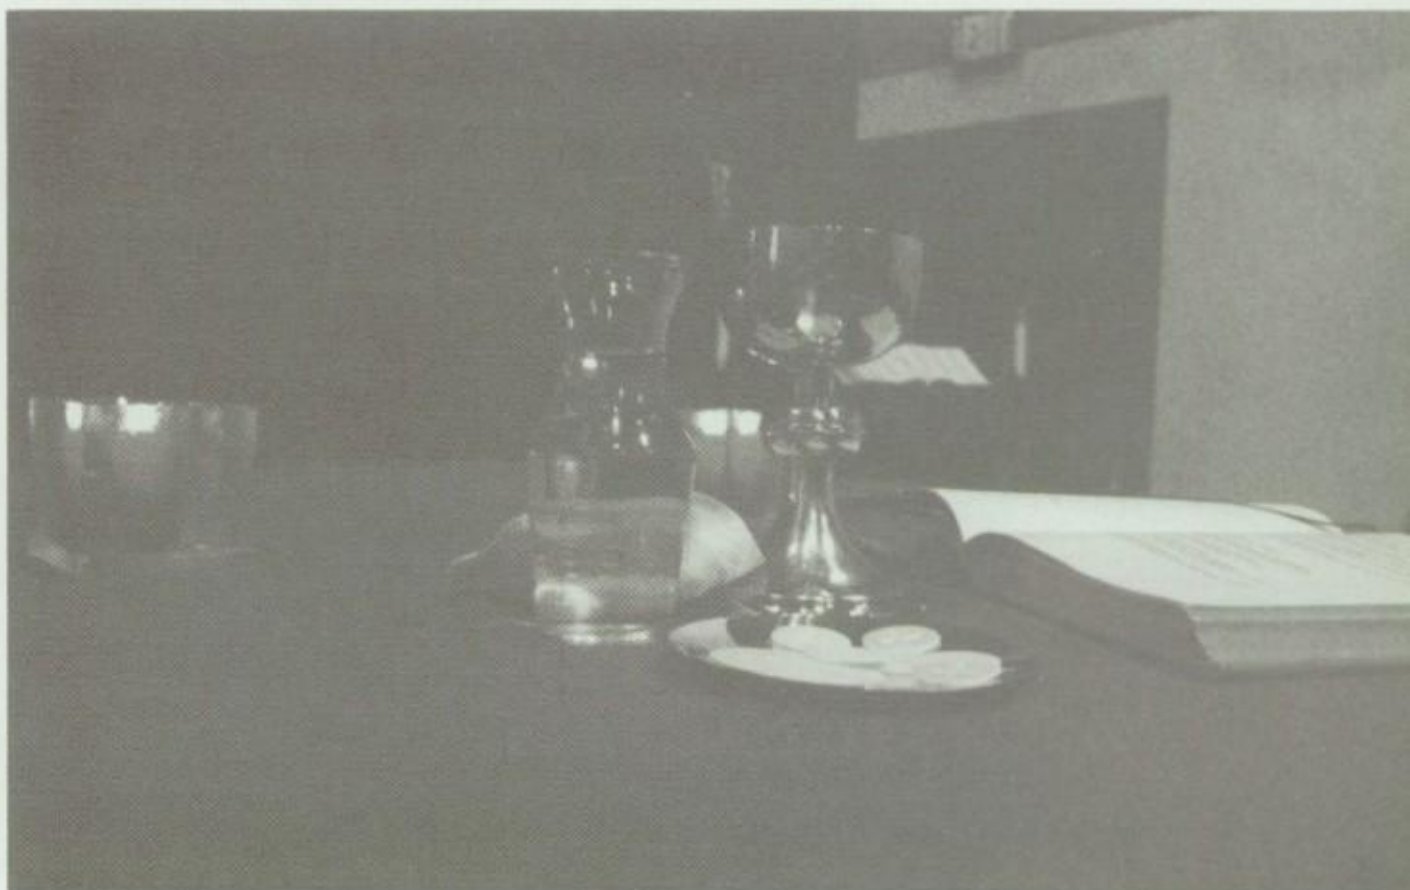

The Frosh really hated to go to mass. He always pushed, shoved, trampled, shouted, chattered, and grumbled his way through the hallways on that seemingly endless journey to the gym, or in warmer weather, across the field to Gesu. Then he plopped himself down in a seat and tried not to get too bored.

Something happened to him between his sophomore and senior year, however. Perhaps his religion classes began to make sense or maybe it had something to do with the SFS atmosphere or just maybe the natural maturing process took over. In any case, though he may not have showed it, his attitude changed. He began to understand and need those occasional liturgies as a chance to redefine and remember his position in the world as a human and a Christian. Liturgies now had meaning. He may have still gone into mass as rowdy as before, but inside there was a definite difference.

For 25 years, Knight liturgies have been the continual source of this spiritual awareness and maturity for the student body. As an activity, they are an important part of school life. They are just one more way the Oblates and staff educate the total man.

PEOPLE

Just like any other successful endeavor, St. Francis started as a dream of special people -- over 900 of them, in fact -- who wanted to fill a need in society. They wanted to build a facility to educate young Christian men, and they did.

Throughout those first years, it was a special people that kept the school going. A hand-picked faculty of Oblates and lay people educated a very special group of freshmen and sophomores who put up with learning in an unfinished building -- one that didn't even have desks -- all because they wanted to go to college.

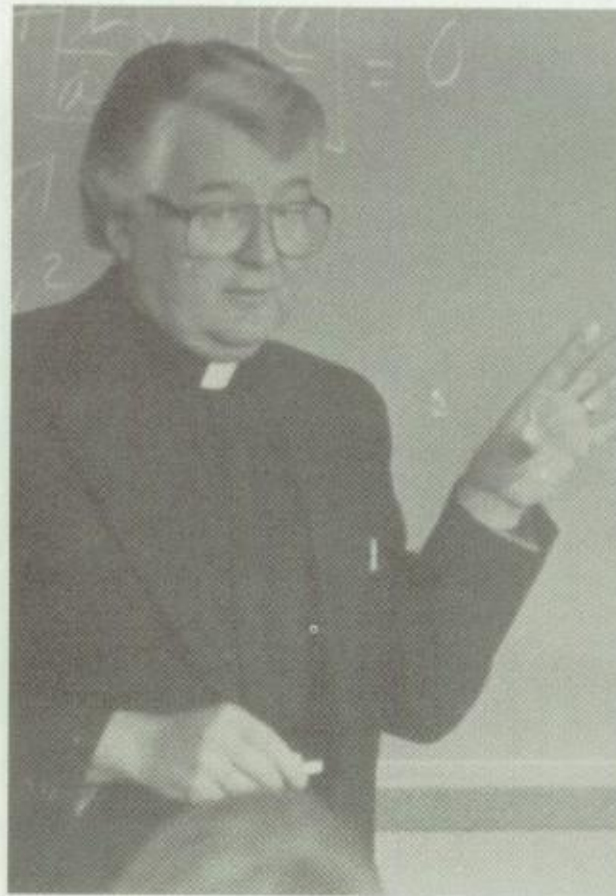

For the past 24 years, thousands of special people (of which 3503 have graduated) have roamed the hallways of this building. It is with great pride that the special people in this school today are presented: the faculty and students.

SFS Life Changes From First Year

In the first pages of this book there is a quote from the 1955 ACCOLADE. Comparing those first editors' thoughts and impressions with what can be seen in the preceding pages, it becomes obvious how much St. Francis, and its people, have changed. The school's construction has long been completed, there are now roughly 700 students, and, in general, SFS has matured. A part of that development and maturity has involved a change in both the values and behavior of people.

Masses are now held for the whole student body only on special occasions. Religious devotions and the Direction of Intention are no longer a part of the student's life. The academic emphasis is now placed on science and mathematics (not science and the languages), but the work is still as demanding as ever. The school no longer has a mascot, but the number of varsity teams has increased greatly.

One attitude that many debate about concerns the supposed decline in school spirit. Traditionalists argue that there is no real change in spirit; we simply attribute more to the past than actually existed. The traditionalist's counterpart will site behavior at games as well as the subtle rebellion of some students to the daily school schedule as evidence that there has been a decline. A more realistic approach may be to attribute the changes to the turmoil in society. There is a greater drive among kids today for independence. Priorities are, generally speaking, no longer tied up in institutions. Society today tells us we must put ourselves first.

There are some things that don't change, though. SFS is still an all male college prep high school -- a situation that will probably never change. Nor will the dress code requiring suit coats and ties probably ever change. St. Francis still has the finest high school stage productions in northwest Ohio. Even though the academic emphasis has changed slightly, it is still apparent that the faculty believes in homework. The year still ends with the Knight receiving an ACCOLADE, a symbol of successful training and the close of another academic challenge.

Now that the school year is rapidly drawing to a close, it is good to look back over these nine months to see what SFS has meant for each class.

For the freshmen, it was a year of new realities and great expectations. They are ending the year by just beginning to really understand what SFS is all about.

The sophomores and juniors have become more a part of St. Francis. As the year ends, they see themselves moving into new positions of leadership in the school.

For seniors, this has been a special year. Not only is it their last year, but it is also the 25th year of the school. Their year was spent as leaders, struggling both among themselves and with others, in preparation for leading a life of their own. They are ending a year by leaving an institution which has worked endlessly in helping them transform themselves within a Christian framework. Looking to new challenges, and new horizons, they are leaving having truly experienced SFS.

The picture below holds a different meaning for everyone. For the freshmen, sophomores and juniors, it is a goal to be met -- to walk down these steps. For seniors, it is looking and walking down these steps one last time. For the faculty, it means watching the students leave with an education they can feel proud of offering.

For all people associated with SFS there is a common attitude. St. Francis brings each many new experiences, some good and some bad, new people, and an interior change that most probably would not be attainable elsewhere. Almost all will agree that SFS has given them some of the best years of their lives. They have grown and they are proud to be men.
